

Kissinger raps Congress' 'meddling'

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

Congress is responsible for the recent collapse of the U.S.-Soviet trade agreement and should stay out of arranging the details of foreign affairs, Henry Kissinger said Friday in Los Angeles.

The secretary of state, speaking to 2,100 members of the World Affairs Council at the Century Plaza Hotel, asked for more cooperation in policy-making in the future.

"The growing tendency of Congress to legislate in detail the day-to-day, or week-to-week, conduct of our foreign affairs raises grave issues," Kissinger said.

The Soviet trade agreement broke down this month after Congressional liberals insisted that the Russians relax their emigration policies for Jews who want to leave the country.

Kissinger warned that without unity between Congress and the executive branch, other nations may misjudge American intentions, tempting world leaders "into irresponsibility" or undermining their trust in American leadership.

"To single out individual countries for special legislative attention has unintended but inevitable consequences and risks unraveling the entire fabric of our foreign policy," he said.

"Too often, differences (between Congress and the executive branch) have defeated the very purposes that both branches meant to serve because the legislative sanctions were too public or too drastic or too indiscriminatory," he said.

Besides the Soviet trade pact, Congress also interfered detrimentally in restricting aid to Turkey after its intervention in Cyprus and in withholding special tariff protection from all members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, Kissinger said.

He named the two countries as Ecuador and Venezuela in his prepared speech, but did not mention them specifically in his talk.

(About 35 persons demonstrated peacefully outside the Century Plaza Hotel during Kissinger's speech to protest military aid to Turkey in view of the Cyprus turmoil.)

Kissinger did not take questions from the floor or from newsmen after the speech.

Officials of the U. S. State Department and the World Affairs Council said he left after the talk to meet with former President Richard Nixon in San Clemente.

In his speech, Kissinger acknowledged that Congress had a right and duty to join in foreign policy making.

He said some Congressional actions "represent the particular views of constituencies"—perhaps referring to the Jewish question—but that the Ford Administration's position is that "except on certain occasions, the American national interest must be served above any thing else."

"If an important American interest is served by the aid relationship, it is a wise investment. If not, our resources are being squandered, even if we have no specific grievances against the recipient," he said.

He called for a new spirit of nonpartisan foreign policy as "a national necessity."

On another topic, the secretary of state urged "a major reduction in consumer dependence on imported oil."

Long-term security demands reduced energy consumption and a speed-up in developing alternate energy sources, he said.

"Such policies will be costly and complex," he said. "Some will be unpleasant and politically unpopular."

But the U. S. must either act now to ensure national self-sufficiency in energy by 1985 "or remain prey to economic disruption and to an increasing loss of control over our future," he said.

'Politics' in House hit

By AL EISELE
Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON—The White House Friday denounced as "old-fashioned politics" the House Ways and Means Committee's approval of legislation delaying President Ford's order raising tariffs on imported crude oil for 90 days while Congress studies alternative plans to discourage energy consumption.

At the same time, the committee attached the measure to a crucial debt-ceiling bill which the Ford administration says must be enacted by Feb. 18 if the government is to continue to pay its bills.

The committee action could force a showdown between Congress and Ford, who only Thursday signed a presidential order that would impose a $1-a-barrel tariff on all imported crude oil next Saturday, with additional $1 increases on March 1 and April 1.

Ford defended the increase as essential to his anti-recession and energy-conservation program, but Democratic leaders of the House and Senate immediately attacked it, asserting that it would boost prices of gasoline and other petroleum products.

THE committee's effort to place Ford over a barrel on the energy issue was accomplished by a 19-15 vote on the bill to delay his order for 90 days, and on a closer 15-14 vote to attach the bill to a measure increasing the national-debt ceiling from its present $495 billion to $531 billion.

The bill to delay the presidential order was proposed by Rep. William Green, D-Pa. It provides not only that the proposed import tariffs be postponed for 90 days but that any fees imposed before the bill is enacted be refunded.

Although Committee Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., voted against attaching the bill to the debt-ceiling measure because it represented a departure from past committee procedures, he and other Democrats on the committee appeared to feel that a combination of gasoline rationing and a smaller price increase would work better to discourage fuel consumption.

"PRICE alone won't do it," said committee member Joseph Karth, D-Minn., after the vote.

"It's got to be a combination of rationing and price increase."

Another committee member, freshman Martha Keys, D-Kan., said she voted with the majority because she felt the Ford plan would be too costly and would not save a significant amount of fuel.

"Rather than the President's system of rationing by price, I would prefer import quotas and an allocation system designed to provide for essential needs and reduced wasteful consumption of fuel," she declared.

Even before the committee completed its action, the White House was making known Ford's displeasure about the measure. Press Secretary Ron Nessen told reporters that Ford feels tying the delay to the debt-ceiling hike smacks of "old-fashioned politics."

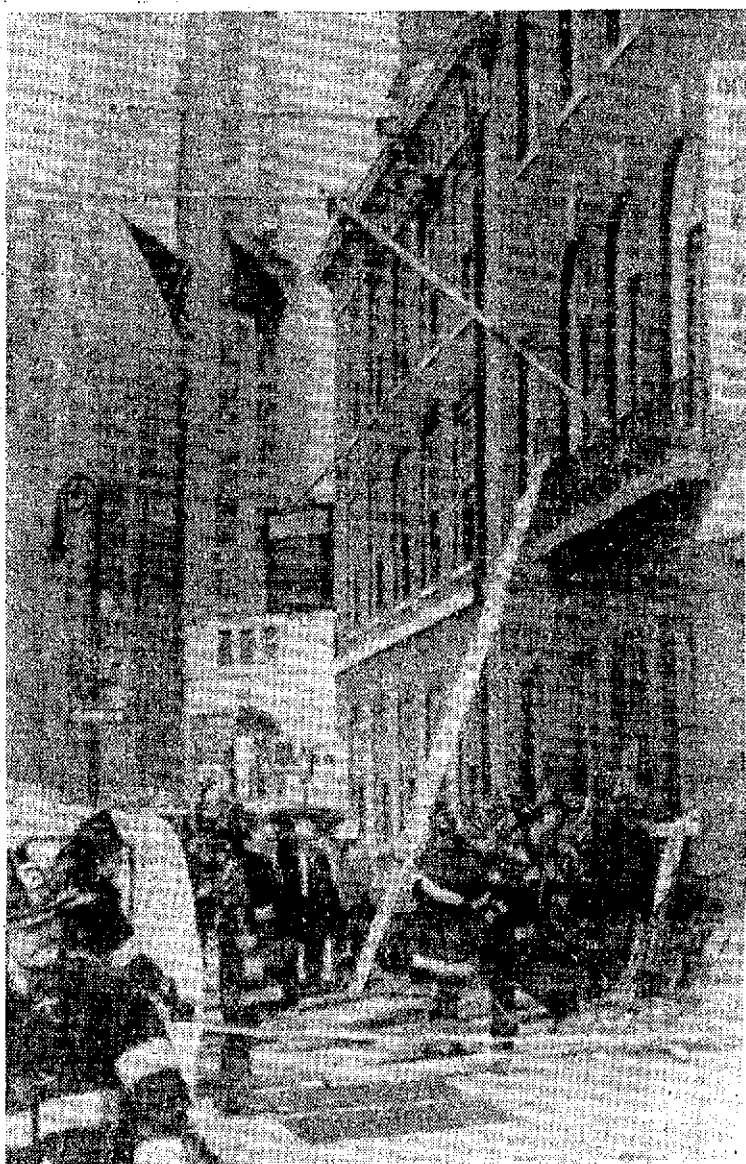

However, Nessen declined to predict whether Ford would veto the hybrid measure. The House will vote on the measure next week, while the Senate is considering similar legislation.

"THE President feels the issues we are dealing with should be addressed directly—that the normal kind of maneuvering and politics as usual is not appropriate," Nessen said. "He believes these issues are too important to be tangled in old-fashioned politics."

At the same time, Nessen said Ford is aware that vetoing his requested $106 billion increase in the debt ceiling would cause "serious problems" since the government would have to stop spending and federal employees—including the President and members of Congress—would not be paid.

Later Friday, Ford defended his call for a 5 percent limit on Social Security benefit increases in 1975, saying the time has

Terrorist bombing kills 4 in Wall Street area

NEW YORK (UPI) — A bomb believed planted by Puerto Rican nationalists Friday ripped through the historic Manhattan tavern where George Washington bade farewell to his officers in 1783, killing four persons and injuring at least 40 others.

Police said the dynamite bomb at the Fraunces Tavern was "similar" to six others allegedly planted by members of a Puerto Rican nationalist group in recent months. A note signed by the group, claiming responsibility for the blast, was found nearby.

James Gezork, 32, Wilmington, Del., died at Beekman Downtown Hospital about 7 p.m. of injuries sustained in the noon hour blast. Another victim, Harold Sherburne, 66, Pine Orchard, Conn., was killed instantly.

Two others who died at the scene were not immediately identified. A spokesman for the medical examiner's office said their bodies were mangled "almost beyond recognition."

The bomb went off in the private Anglers Club on the second floor of the four-story colonial building at 101 Broad Street in the Wall Street financial district, directly above the tavern's main dining room, fire officials said.

Both the tavern and the club were jammed with luncheon crowds from the lower Manhattan financial and business community.

Shortly after the explosion, callers identifying themselves as members of the Armed Forces for the Liberation of Puerto Rico telephoned news media to claim responsibility.

Police said a note was found in a phone booth near the scene which read:

"We, FALN, the Armed Forces of the Puerto Rican Nation, take full responsibility for the specially detonated bomb that exploded today at Fraunce's Tavern with reactionary corporate executives inside."

The note characterized the bombing as a retaliation for a bomb allegedly placed by the CIA Jan. 11 in Mayaguez, Puerto Rico, in which two supporters of the Puerto Rican independence

U.S. loses hope on oil prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration has given up hope of obtaining any significant reduction in world oil prices for several years at least, administration officials said Friday.

As a result, they said, the high oil prices Americans have been paying since last year likely will become near-permanent, and so will the new price increases proposed by President Ford.

An economic impact report Friday by the Library of Congress estimated that Ford's energy program, unless blocked by Congress, will increase energy costs by $50 billion in this year, much more than the President's estimate of $30 billion.

But Gerald L. Parsky, assistant secretary of the Treasury for trade, energy and financial institutions, said the administration would stand by its estimate.

Parsky said the administration has come to the realization that oil-producing nations probably are not going to retreat from their five-fold increase in oil prices for several years, at least.

He added that unless the United States takes action of its own to lower oil demand or increase supply, "there not only won't be a price decline, but it could go higher."

Arabs rip West's economic policies

ALGIERS (AP) — Algerian Foreign Minister Abdelaziz Bouteflika opened a special meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries Friday with a stinging denunciation of Western economic policies that he said were "raising the danger of a world catastrophe."

But he added, "We have not abandoned hope for cooperation with the developed countries."

The four-day ministerial meeting was called to plan an oil summit and set the stage for a proposed dialogue between oil producers and consumers. OPEC sources said there would be no direct discussion at the meeting of further increases in oil prices.

Bouteflika repeatedly urged a tripartite approach to the energy crisis, including the oil-less developing countries in any discussions with the oil producers and industrialized consumers. This approach has been promoted by France but opposed by the United States.

However, at a reception following the session Interior Minister Jamshid Amouzegar of Iran said "at least five major OPEC members" have agreed to open preliminary talks on a two-way basis with industrialized oil consumers "for the sake of efficiency." Algeria does not rank among the five top exporters in OPEC.

"As the next step, you could always have an enlarged conference bringing in other participants," Amouzegar said.

In an interview, Saudi Arabia's Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani said his government was "strongly opposed to any confrontation" with the oil consuming nations. He said he expected the meeting here to set the

White House says no Mideast troops planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House Friday denied a report that the United States may be preparing three Army divisions for use in the Middle East.

NBC News later said it erred when newsman John Chancellor told President Ford in a nationally televised interview that the Pentagon had confirmed the report, which originally was published in the New Republic magazine.

Chancellor said on NBC's evening news program Friday that the Pentagon had not confirmed such a report. He said a member of NBC's Washington staff had misinterpreted what an Army information officer told him.

DURING the Thursday night interview, Ford declined to talk about the report that three American divisions were going to the Mideast. His refusal to comment prompted speculation that such a move might be under way.

Denying the report, Press Secretary Ron Nessen told newsmen Friday: "The U.S. is not creating a Middle East expeditionary force, is not creating three divisions to send to the Middle East. The U.S. has no plans to develop any military divisions to send to the Middle East."

At the same time, the Pentagon said three new Army divisions are being organized, principally with the mission of reinforcing NATO in event of a war emergency in Western Europe. A spokesman said the three divisions will not be combat-ready for several years.

Chancellor's question Thursday night was:

"The New Republic this week has a story saying there are three American divisions being sent to the Middle East, or being prepared for the Middle East. We called the Pentagon and we got a confirmation on that, that one is air mobile, one is airborne and one is armor ... Could you shed any light on this?"

Ford replied: "I don't think that I ought to talk about any particular military contingency plans." He referred to past statements by himself and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger suggesting that U.S. military force would be considered only

His wife, 2 children

L.B. doctor held in '70 slayings

Dr. Jeffrey MacDonald, director of emergency medical services at St. Mary Medical Center in Long Beach, was arrested at his home Friday in connection with the 1970 murder of his wife and two children in North Carolina.

MacDonald, 31, of 16052 Marina Drive, Huntington Harbour, was arrested by FBI agents after a warrant for his arrest was issued by a federal grand jury in Raleigh, N.C.

He is being held in Orange County jail in lieu of $500,000 bail.

The emergency room director was a physician with the Army's Green Berets at Ft. Bragg, N.C., when his wife, Collette, and daughters Kimberly, 6, and Kristen, 2, were slain on the night of Feb. 16-17, 1970, in the family's duplex.

He said at the time that four hippie-type intruders had carried out the murders and had scrawled "acid is groovy" and "kill the pigs" on the headboard of the couple's bed before leaving.

MacDonald was stabbed 14 times in the alleged attack and was apparently left for dead.

In a military investigation several months after the incident, MacDonald was cleared of any involvement in the slayings.

The Army said a five-week investigation had produced insufficient evidence to bring MacDonald to trial.

Last August, MacDonald was again considered a suspect in the murders when a federal grand jury was impaneled at the request of his father-in-law, Alfred E. Kassab. In a legal paper presented to a U.S. District Court judge, Kassab accused MacDonald of the stabbing deaths of his step-daughter and grandchildren and asked for the grand jury hearing.

According to a report at that time, the Kassabs tried earlier in 1974 to have a federal murder warrant issued for MacDonald.

MacDonald served as an assistant director of emergency services for three years before his appointment last October as director.

Top banks trim prime rate

Combined News Services

The nation's leading banks Friday lowered their prime interest rates for the third consecutive week in response to the Federal Reserve System's effort to fight recession through more and easier credit.

Bank of America of San Francisco and First City National Bank of New York, the nation's No. 1 and No. 2 banks, dropped their prime rate to 9 1/2 per cent from 9 3/4 per cent. Several other banks throughout the nation made similar cuts in the prime, the interest banks charge their most creditworthy corporate customers. The business loan rate for these prime customers has declined from a historic high of 12 per cent last fall.

Skyjack payoff

ST. PAUL, Minn. — The Minnesota Supreme Court ruled Friday that an insurance company should repay Northwest Airlines the $200,000 it gave a hijacker who parachuted into a Western wilderness and hasn't been seen since. Northwest gave a passenger who identified himself as D. B. Cooper $200,000 on Nov. 24, 1971, in one of the first spectacular plane hijackings for money. Cooper, on a flight from Portland, Ore., to Seattle, Wash., threatened to explode a bomb on the plane unless he got $200,000 and four parachutes. Northwest arranged to get the money from a Seattle bank and put it and the parachutes on the hijacked plane in Seattle. Then the plane headed south and the hijacker parachuted from the plane somewhere between Seattle and Portland. Neither he nor the money has been seen since.

Israel rushes fortifications

TEL AVIV — Israel is rushing completion of fortifications along a quarter-billion-dollar defense line in Sinai between the Suez Canal and the strategic Mitla and Gidi passes, Tel Aviv military sources said Friday. The disclosure came in the wake of Egyptian demands that Israel surrender the passes and the Abu Rodeis oilfields in southwestern Sinai in the second stage of troop disengagement to be mediated by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. Israeli military sources said Egypt now is capable of transferring five infantry and mechanized divisions across the Suez canal within six to 12 hours to prepare for a new offensive. They said Israel has already spent $64 million on the new Israeli defense line for new roads, fortifications, tank traps, minefields and fences west of the two strategic passes. Another expenditure of more than $160 million is planned. The Mitla pass is about 20 miles west of the canal and Gidi about 30 miles west of the waterway.

Arab buys castle

LONDON — An Arab ambassador in London has paid more than $1.2 million for an 18th century English castle used in the James Bond film "Casino Royale." Mereworth Castle near Tonbridge, Kent, was purchased Friday by Mohamed Mahdi al Tajir, ambassador of the oil-rich United Arab Emirates in the Persian Gulf, land agents reported. The castle, surrounded by 385 acres of woodlands and gardens, was sold by financier William Robinson, who acquired Mereworth for $450,000 in 1968.

Marijuana giveaway

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — An underground newspaper held a drawing for a free pound of "high-grade Colombian marijuana" Friday after a last-minute court attempt to stop the giveaway failed. The name of the winner was pulled from a gunny sack containing 4,500 entries by Washtenaw County Commissioner Catherine McClary, an Ann Arbor Democrat. She immediately slipped the paper into her pocket. The name was to be revealed later to the underground paper, the Ann Arbor Sun, and a secret meeting place was to be arranged for the delivery.

Fewer blacks join Army

WASHINGTON — The armed services are taking in fewer black recruits, Pentagon figures showed Friday. Blacks accounted for 16 per cent of the recruits enrolled by the armed services in December, the fifth straight month in which the black percentage has declined. Defense officials have said they will not impose any racial quotas, but Secretary of the Army Howard Callaway has indicated in the past that his service would concentrate on recruiting in the suburbs. The December figure on black enlistments compared with 18 per cent in November, 19 per cent in October, 20 per cent in September, 22 per cent in August and 23 per cent last July. Early in the all-volunteer force era, which began in the summer of 1973, some critics of the concept said they expected the armed services to become heavily black.

Fugitive gunned down

MONTREAL — Between 15 and 20 policemen burst into the bedroom of a ski chalet Thursday, opened up with automatic weapons, and killed Richard Blass, a 28-year-old escaped convict sought in the Montreal night club massacre, authorities said. They said Blass, known as the "Cat" and the "Weasel" for numerous escapes from violent death, was killed as he reached for a gun in an arsenal that included two sawed-off shotguns, revolvers, pistols and gas masks.

Sweden pushes jet sale

COPENHAGEN — Sweden is bidding strongly against the U.S. and France in the fierce competition to sell 346 fighter-jets to Denmark, Norway, The Netherlands and Belgium to replace American-made Starfighters. Sweden is offering improved terms for the Viggen fighters made by Saab-Scania in competition with the American F16 and the French Mirage F1-M53. Swedish companies have reportedly offered to purchase goods in Denmark worth 148 per cent of the value of the jets if Denmark buys the Saab-Scania jet.

Perplexed 'Stooge' Larry Fine dies

Combined News Services

Larry Fine, the wild-haired middle man of the knockabout Three Stooges comedy team, died of a stroke Friday at the Motion Picture Country Home in Woodland Hills. He was 73.

Fine had become a resident of the Country Home, supported by the Motion Picture and Television Fund, after a series of strokes left him partially paralyzed in 1971. Although unable to walk, he continued making appearances at schools and on television talk shows, reminiscing about his 50 years as one of the Stooges.

Fine enjoyed the vast rebirth of popularity of the Three Stooges brought by showings of their short comedies on television. A new generation of fans sent him 2,000 Christmas cards last month.

Larry Fine was the Stooge with a symphony conductor's hair and a perplexed expression, caused by being caught between the insanity of his partners. The original trio were Fine and two brothers — Curly Howard, bald, chubby and vulnerable, and Moe Howard, mop-haired and willy.

Curly died in 1952 and was replaced by another brother, Shemp Howard, who died in 1955. His successors were Joe Besser and Joe de Rita.

Deported

David Harris, former husband of folk singer Joan Baez, and eight other Americans were deported from South Vietnam on Friday after they passed out leaflets in front of the U.S. Embassy, a Saigon government spokesman said Saturday.

The spokesman said the three women and six men "had abused their tourist's privilege and violated the Vietnamese government's regulations by holding demonstrations in front of the U.S. Embassy."

The leaflets demanded that "the U.S. Government end its intervention" and "cease support for the present Saigon regime and its vast police apparatus." They called for the election of a "new popular government" to replace the regime of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Calligrapher

Sanford L. Fox, whose elegant calligraphy has been on hundreds of White House invitations, was saluted Friday by President Ford as he retired after 32 years.

At a retirement party in the White House Theater, Fox received a certificate of Meritorious Service from Ford for outstanding dedication to duty. First Lady Betty Ford gave him a mantle clock as a gift from the White House staff.

Growing star

Onetime Broadway musical star Barbara Cook has grown, and grown since the 1950s when she was the star of such musicals as "The Music Man," "Candide" and "Plain and Fancy." Now rehearsing in New York for a concert Sunday at Carnegie Hall, she said she is not bothered by the change from her lissome days of the '60s. At left she is shown as she appeared in "Ash Wednesday" in 1965.

Pilots' immunity $259 million IBM judgment voided

plea on crash of TWA jet denied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Line Pilots Association, warning that the threat of punishment could keep serious air safety defects hidden, tried but failed Friday to win immunity for all witnesses in a hearing on the TWA crash that killed 92 persons last month.

The Federal Aviation Administration rejected the ALPA request, saying it had no evidence a lack of immunity would block any testimony concerning the crash near Washington Dec. 1.

ALPA President John J. O'Donnell said he made his request to the FAA in hopes a grant of immunity would prompt pilots and air traffic controllers to speak up about unsafe practices they had personally encountered.

The grant would not offer protection from civil or criminal suits, but would keep the FAA from fining pilots and air traffic controllers up to $2,000 or revoking their licenses for past misdeeds they described.

"If we are ever going to get at the root cause of aviation system accidents, we must have full and complete immunity for all witnesses whose technical and operational evidence is essential to discovery of the real probable cause," O'Donnell told a news conference.

IN REJECTING the ALPA request, FAA chief Alexander P. Butterfield noted that the immunity powers his agency possessed until passage of the Organized Crime Control Act in 1970 had been designed to protect witnesses from subsequent criminal action.

Butterfield said ALPA appeared more concerned about obtaining immunity for "violations of the Federal Aviation Regulations, which are not criminal in character."

To grant such immunity, Butterfield said, would run contrary to FAA policy.

"I am unaware of any witness who has indicated that he will refuse to testify because of the possibility of FAA enforcement action," he said. "It would be, in my view, an abandonment of the public interest for me to confer blanket immunity to all witnesses under the present circumstances."

The National Transportation Safety Board is scheduled to start a week-long hearing Monday on the Dec. 1 crash of TWA's Flight 514 during an approach to Runway 12 at Washington's Dulles International Airport. The crash was the worst U.S. air disaster of 1974.

Draft-dodger list cut 1,700 names

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department said Friday 1,700 names have been removed from a list of convicted draft-dodgers as part of President Ford's amnesty program.

The names of the other 4,400 are being sent to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who asked for them last year during hearings on the amnesty program, department spokesman John Russell said.

The 1,700 were removed after Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe told U.S. attorneys to review all cases and remove those who could not be prosecuted for draft evasion.

REMAINING are those under indictment or investigation.

Russell said the department has signed 285 of the 4,400 to take part in the amnesty program's alternate service.

The Justice Department program is one of three parts of Ford's amnesty program, with a deadline of Jan. 31 to sign up for all three.

The Pentagon is offering the program to 13,000 convicted deserters still under military control.

The Presidential Clemency Board is offering the program, with possible pardons for over 100,000 men convicted of draft evasion or desertion during the Vietnam era.

Kennedy said his office would send the list to counseling groups and not make it public.

"The list will now allow many men to determine

Colby to be 1st witness in probe of CIA

WASHINGTON (AP) — CIA Director William E. Colby will be the opening witness a week from Monday when the House special subcommittee on intelligence begins its probe of the CIA, it was announced Friday.

Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., announced the starting date for the hearings after the House Democratic Steering Committee deferred for today a proposal to create a select committee to investigate the CIA, FBI and other secret intelligence agencies.

Nedzi said Colby will be followed on the stand by four former CIA directors.

DENVER (AP) — A federal appeals court, ruling that IBM had not violated antitrust laws, on Friday overturned a $259.5 million damage award to IBM's competitor, Telex.

In a 300-word order the 10th U.S. Court of Appeals also ruled that Telex had stolen IBM's trade secrets and ordered Telex to pay IBM $18.5 million.

The case was appealed from U.S. District Court in Tulsa, Okla., where Judge A. Sherman Christensen first ordered IBM to pay Telex $352.5 million. He later reduced the sum to $259.5 million, saying he had made a "substantial error" in computing the amount.

TELEX had charged International Business Machines Corp., the nation's largest computer company, with monopolistic practices in attempts to lock Telex out of the computer supply market.

IBM in turn sued Telex for allegedly stealing its trade secrets, and Christensen awarded IBM $21.9 million in that case.

Shortly before the appeals court decision was issued, the Securities and Exchange Commission suspended trading in all IBM and Telex stock until 10 a.m. Tuesday. The SEC said the suspensions were ordered "to allow time for the public to be fully informed regarding the decision."

The SEC normally orders suspension of trading in a company's stock when it knows of upcoming announcements which could affect the stock market.

The three-judge appeals court said the huge money

AMC protests EPA standards for 1977

WASHINGTON (AP) — American Motors Corp. told the Environmental Protection Agency on Friday it would cost an extra $275 per car and an 11 per cent loss in gasoline mileage to come even close to meeting 1977 auto emission standards.

AMC, the fourth U.S. automaker to testify in EPA hearings on auto emissions, said it was almost impossible to meet the 1977 standards on schedule because of incomplete technology and insufficient time.

General Motors, Ford and Chrysler officials testified earlier this week in support of their petition to EPA for a one-year delay in the standards.

The EPA hearings also cover President Ford's proposal to ease the standards until 1982 in exchange for a 40 per cent improvement in fuel economy.

American Motors said meeting Ford's proposed interim standards nationwide would add about $155 to the price of a new car and would reduce gasoline award was overturned because the lower court did not show in its findings of fact that IBM's actions were "predatory and contrary to the Sherman Antitrust Act."

The evidence establishes that IBM's actions constituted valid competitive practices and were neither predatory nor otherwise violative of the antitrust acts.

IBM Board Chairman Frank T. Cary said in New York: "We are pleased that the appeals court overturned the lower court's decision and found that IBM has not violated the antitrust laws."

IN TULSA, Stephen J. Jatrass, president of Telex, said he had not seen the court's order, but he indicated Telex would appeal the ruling to the U.S. Supreme Court.

"Telex Corp. has the utmost confidence in the correctness of the trial court's judgment and our judicial system," Jatrass said.

The appeals court said the lower court erred in defining "market" as the term was used in the antitrust case.

"This fundamental misconception affected the remainder of the court's decision," the appeals court said.

The appellate judges awarded IBM $17.5 million in compensatory damages and $1 million in punitive damages. Each side was ordered to pay its own attorneys' costs.

In explaining why they upheld the judgment to IBM, the judges said they agreed with the lower court's finding that "Telex had misappropriated and pirated trade secrets of IBM." They did not explain why they lowered the damage award by $2.4 million, from $21.9 million to $18.5 million.

Christensen, of Salt Lake City, Utah, was assigned to hear the original case in U.S. District Court in Tulsa, where Telex is headquartered. His Sept. 17, 1973, ruling was appealed to the appeals court in Denver.

Telex had charged IBM was guilty of monopolistic practices involving the pricing of computer accessory equipment. IBM, in its countersuit, had charged Telex gained illegal advantage from its hiring of IBM employees, with their knowledge of IBM products.

The appellate court's order was released by the court clerk at his office. No formal courtroom proceeding took place.

Only the court's order was released Friday. A court spokesman said the judges' opinion, explaining their ruling, probably would be issued Tuesday.

The next step in the appeals process would be the U.S. Supreme Court. There were no representatives of either side at the federal courthouse when the ruling was made public.

Women want more clout in party

State Demos gather for convention

By DOUG WILLIS
AP Political Writer

SACRAMENTO — Women delegates demanded more money and more power from the male leadership of the California Democratic Party Friday as the party's three-day state convention opened in Sacramento.

Five potential candidates for the Democratic nomination for president in 1976 were slated to appear later in the convention, which party leaders predicted would be a "victory celebration convention" and not the intraparty brawl of many past years.

Five leaders of the women's caucus of the statewide convention accused party leaders of shortchanging women candidates and being secretive about how party funds are allocated among candidates.

They also called for abolition of women's division of the party, which they said has been used to keep women away from the real power in the party.

The women's caucus demands were the only note of discord as an estimated 2,000 delegates, alternates and observers started showing up Friday for the weekend meeting.

Former Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia led off the presidential hopeful parade with an open house cocktail party at one Sacramento hotel Friday. U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas planned a reception at a different hotel a few hours later.

Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona, Gov. Milton Shapp of Pennsylvania and former U.S. Sen. Fred Harris planned convention receptions today. All five were scheduled to address the convention today, along with Gov.

Brown, Rep. Phillip Burton of San Francisco and U.S. Sen. John Tunney.

Earlier Friday, Carter told a San Francisco audience that President Ford's tariff on oil imports "is a mistake because it's inflationary."

Backers of the rival presidential hopefuls said they expected their candidates to throw a few barbs at Ford, but not at each other. It will be more of a get-acquainted session than a hard campaigning time, they said.

Mari Goldman, leader of the women's caucus, said a top priority of women's caucus delegates is abolition of the women's division. She called it a "political apartheid" system which allows women to do most of the work while men make decisions in the party.

"The men who stand in our way are not necessarily against our advancement. They just think we want their jobs, and that's true," Ms. Goldman said.

Abolition of the women's division of the party will encourage more women to seek meaningful leadership posts, she said.

She also attacked outgoing state chairman John Burton, a San Francisco congressman, saying: "The party is still run by one person. It is not a democratically run party."

'Nuclear explosions' used against cancer

PALO ALTO (UPI) — Cancer researchers at Stanford University said Friday they had developed a radiation device that would kill cancer cells with "miniature nuclear explosions."

Dr. Henry S. Kaplan, a leading expert on Hodgkins Disease, said the approach was "absolutely unique" and would produce little or no damage to nearby healthy organs or tissue.

The new device was announced at a conference on pion radiotherapy in cancer treatment by Kaplan and Dr. Malcolm Bagshaw of the Stanford radiology department, and physics department Profs. H. Alan Schwettman, Douglas Boyd and William Fairbank, who developed the machine.

They said experiments will take three to five years before treatment is available to patients "but if pion beam therapy becomes a reality, it would mark a milestone in cancer radiotherapy."

The device is designed for use on cancers of the mouth and throat, certain tumors of the brain and lungs and those which presently resist conventional radiation, they said.

The product of four years' research, the "medical pion generator" built at Stanford uses a stream of pions, subatomic particles generated by a high-energy accelerator, to kill cancer cells with the miniature nuclear explosions.

"Because the nuclear fragments produced in this explosion cause such great destruction, pion therapy is expected to be about three times as effective in killing tumor cells as X-rays giving a comparable radiation dose," Bagshaw said.

Pions, the "glue" that holds protons and neutrons together in the nucleus of an atom, are produced when the powerful beam from the accelerator hits a titanium target as part of a process which aims the beams at the patient.

When pions strike living tissue, they said, they slow down and are eventually captured by nuclei in atoms of living cells. But a nucleus which captures a pion explodes, they said.

Oil firms face trust probe

By BOB SCHMIDT
Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — The state attorney general's office has been given immediate access to business records of four major California oil companies, and will examine them to see if prosecution for antitrust conspiracy is warranted.

Superior Court Judge William M. Gallagher issued an order here approving an agreement between the attorney general and Exxon, Standard Oil of California, Texaco, and Mobil. The agreement, filed with the court Jan. 17, gives the attorney general "immediate access to and immediate right to review and copy all records and documents" given by the four firms to the Joint Legislative Committee on Public Domain last year.

Union Oil Company, which declined to join the four firms in the agreement, was specifically excluded from the order. Asst. Atty. Gen. Warren Abbott, chief of the Justice Dept.'s antitrust unit, said his office would analyze the documents to which it has access and determine whether to initiate further court action against Union.

After a nine-month analysis of the business records of the five firms, plus those of Shell and Atlantic Richfield, the joint committee issued a series of reports culminating with a recommendation that the seven firms be prosecuted for conspiring to regulate the price of crude oil purchased from California.

Long Beach, acting in its capacity as trustee of the state's tidelands, is preparing to sue the seven firms in a civil action alleging that the firms conspired to hold down the price of crude oil.

The difference between the artificial price of the oil removed from the Long Beach tidelands and the actual fair market value had no conspiracy taken place is currently $170 million, the joint committee contended in its report.

Cathy O'Neill of Los Angeles, unsuccessful candidate for secretary of state, also criticized Burton as she outlined a series of resolutions to give women candidates more party money.

She said California today has fewer women state legislators — just two — than it did in the 1960s, while women in other states are making major gains.

"The only way this can change is to have affirmative action funding for women candidates," she said.

Asked if that meant giving women candidates more party money than an equally qualified male, Mrs. O'Neill said: "I am putting it in a positive manner women candidates, because they are of very high quality, ran better" than male Democratic candidates.

Bra claims prove falsies

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The distributors of the "Command Performance" Brassiere have been found guilty of making false claims that the bra would build bigger bustlines, it was announced Friday.

Phyllis and Henry Coulombe, of Carmichael, were found guilty Thursday in Broderick District Court. Sentencing was set for the first week in February.

The couple was arrested last October. State investigators said an undercover agent purchased a bra for $15.21.

The agent was told the bra was guaranteed to increase her bust two sizes a month by moving fat from the arms and stomach and moving it into the bra.

"Gravity and nature will make it permanent," she was told, investigators said.

Conflict of interest charged

Text panelist hits Riles, to quit

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A member of the state's textbook screening commission accused schools chief Wilson Riles of a conflict of interest Friday over a preface Riles wrote to a social studies text.

Vernon Grose, a long-time Riles critic, called Riles' involvement with the book a "flagrant violation of conflict of interest."

Grose, vice president of a private technical school in Santa Barbara, said he and several others are resigning from the state's Curriculum Commission because of new conflict-of-interest standards for its members.

The standards were proposed by Riles and approved by the state Board of Education. They take effect Feb. 1.

Riles defended his involvement with the book "California's Black Pioneers," which the Curriculum Commission is considering as a possible statewide text for grades seven and eight in 1976.

"As the state's chief school officer, it is quite appropriate for me to write the preface to a book which I feel is worthy," Riles said in a statement. "I, of course, received no payment."

"It is the responsibility of the Curriculum Commission to recommend textbooks to the state Board of Education, not mine."

He said his name appears on the cover of the book, and a chapter on contemporary black political figures includes his name and picture.

Grose said Riles has set one standard for the Curriculum Commission and another for himself.

The new rules bar the 16 commissioners and their staff from receiving any pay, royalties or gifts from publishers with texts before the commission.

They also require commissioners to notify their chairman before meeting with publishers' representatives.

"One can hardly wonder whether Wilson Riles ever talked to this publisher in other than a publicly announced meeting," Grose said.

Riles responded, "I have the privilege to talk to anybody I wish, because I do not recommend textbooks, nor do I adopt them."

The chairperson of the commission, Eva Long Yang, a Hayward elementary school principal, said she thought the book should be disqualified under conflict-of-interest standards.

"I would prefer the publisher to delete the forward and his (Riles) name on the front cover," an attorney for the Department of Education, William Dobson, said he thought no conflict of interest could exist "unless the one who's making the decision is going to profit by it."

"I can see how someone who's critical of everything a black does would have a problem with this," Dobson said.

She said the party gave Southern California women candidates for the Legislature only $250 each out of a $250,000 fund. Asked at a press conference how much male candidates got, she said it was also $250 each, but that some in districts targeted as good prospects for Democratic upsets got $1,000 to $5,000.

John Burton said he was neutral on the issue of the women's division. "I will support whatever the women want," he said.

Asked about whether women candidates got special target district funds, Burton listed several women he said got big donations from the statewide party.

Health plan 'abuses' investigated

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state has begun an intensive investigation of Department of Health records that involve prepaid health plans, the department's acting director said Friday.

Robert Gnaizda said he ordered the probe after news reports of abuses in the prepaid health care system.

"I decided that I did not want to run any risk, so I asked that the files be locked so that our task force could investigate it the next day," Gnaizda said in a telephone interview.

"I wanted to protect against an event I doubted would occur."

He said that "event" was the possible pilfering of files.

Gnaizda said the investigation was part of a three-pronged review of department programs for Gov. Brown, who said in his inaugural address he wanted a study of costs and benefits of health delivery systems.

"We have a task force of 50 persons working on a variety of tasks, with some emphasis on prepaid health plans," Gnaizda said.

"It's at least a three-pronged study," he added. "One part of it is related to long range planning. Another is related to all the health delivery systems and a third prong is related to prepaid plans."

The prepaid system has been hit with a series of charges since its inception in 1972. Under the program, the state makes a set payment each month to private clinics for the treatment of Medi-Cal recipients.

is come in and put a padlock on the place," the Bee quoted one source as saying.

"They took over the files and they are examining everything in the shop, paper by paper, legal records, just a variety of records everywhere," Gnaizda called the investigation "a routine precaution" but agreed that rumors about abuses in prepaid programs had helped spur it.

"I am not doing anything I wouldn't advise a bank or savings and loan or any other client to do when they purchase a new institution," he said.

A spokesman for the department, Vince Vandre, said department employees were allowed to use file material but were not allowed to take it away from their work areas.

Gnaizda told the Bee: "We have no definite evidence of anything. We have heard about a lot of different things, and we are trying to get a lot of information so we can make some sort of independent judgement about where we are going."

Apartment fire kills baby boy

A baby boy died early Friday in a Wilmington apartment-house fire that caused damage estimated at $20,000.

Firemen controlled the blaze within 10 minutes of their arrival at the scene. In a first-floor apartment they found the charred body of 18-month-old Tobaki Smith. His mother, Mary Lou Smith, 23, was treated for shock.

Firemen said the blaze appeared to have started in the child's room.

Farmers battle low prices with 'Butzburger's'

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — In a slur at Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz, the National Farmers Organization has come up with a new name for ground beef it is selling direct to consumers — "Butzburger's."

"From now on, we're selling Butzburger's," said David Goolsby, an NFO member from neighboring Williamson County. "Our new labels will note that the ground beef is being dedicated to Mr. Butz."

The NFO has been selling both ground beef and cheese directly to the consumer at various middle Tennessee locations in a protest it says is aimed at low prices paid farmers and high prices charged consumers.

Criticism of the program has centered on enrollment practices and the way medical groups are allowed into the system.

The Sacramento Bee said Friday that some sources inside the department described the investigation as a "raid" and said they were told that they would be fired on the spot if caught removing anything from certain files.

They said they were "absolutely shocked" by the procedure, the newspaper said.

"In Medi-Cal and the other high-cost programs, what they did essentially

Does right make might?

I recently was refused a job because I am left-handed. The position involved counter work where the food preparation system was supposedly set up for right-handed persons. Can Action Line find out if a company legally can do this? L.R., Long Beach.

A LITTLE LEARY.

ME APARTMENT IS SO COLD WHEN I OPEN THE DOOR THE LIGHT GOES ON

There is no federal or state law covering your situation, according to spokesmen for the U.S. Department of Labor, the Federal Equal Employment Opportunities Commission and the California Fair Employment Practices Commission. These agencies enforce laws prohibiting discrimination on the basis of race, sex, age, religion or national origin, but the spokesmen said they knew of no statute prohibiting an employer from discriminating against left-handed persons and they added that they had never heard of a case such as yours. In 1974, the state enacted a statute that generally prohibits job discrimination against handicapped persons, and in recent years, the federal government has outlawed many of the height and weight requirements for certain jobs, but none of these changes deals with your situation, said the spokesman for the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission. Your only recourse would be a time-consuming and possibly expensive lawsuit to test the constitutionality of the employer's position, the spokesman added.

Policy matter

We have an accident policy with the Combined Insurance Co. of America. We filed a claim more than five months ago, but when we ask about the settlement, which should pay us $300 to $400, the only answer we get is "we'll see about it." Can you help? E.A.R., Long Beach.

No. Your policy was not in effect at the time of your accident, according to Philip Romero, assistant claims manager for the insurance firm. He said your original policy lapsed in the spring and the policy you bought April 18 was paid for with a worthless check. The policy was automatically canceled when they didn't get a replacement check from you within a few weeks. Romero said they wrote you in late December telling you the claim had been denied.

Judgment day

I recently applied for a home loan and during the investigation of my credit rating, the bank found out that in December 1969, a judgment was issued against me for $1,134, which I didn't know about. I know that a man sued me that year, but when I first appeared in court in September 1969, I became ill and had to leave. My attorney told me the next day that he was going to negotiate a settlement for a lesser amount and would let me know the details, but I never heard from him again and I assumed the suit was dropped. When I recently found out about the judgment, I called the attorney and he said he didn't know anything about it, but would look into it and call me back. He never did and now he won't return my calls. Isn't a court required to notify a person when a judgment is issued against him? M.C., Compton.

The court records show that your attorney appeared at a second hearing on Dec. 12, 1969, and agreed that you would pay the full amount ($1,134) requested by the plaintiff and the court costs. The court was not required to notify you of the judgment because your attorney was there when it was issued, said a court spokesman. If neither you nor your attorney had been present and the plaintiff had won the suit by default, you would have been notified of the judgment, the spokesman added. Regardless of the circumstances, the judgment still stands and it won't be removed from your credit record until it is paid.

Taxing question

What is the reason for the federal excise tax on telephone calls and why isn't it deductible? Mrs. W.P., Lakewood.

The reason for the tax is simply to raise revenue for the government although the current tax rate of 7 per cent is being dropped one per cent a year until the tax is phased out in 1982, according to a spokesman for the U.S. Treasury Department. The spokesman said the tax was introduced for long distance calls in 1932 in order to bring revenue to the government from upper income families who owned telephones in those years and could afford the luxury of long distance calls. In 1941 the tax was applied to local calls in order to prevent the unnecessary use of telephone service and to use the utility further as a source of needed revenue in that threatening pre-war year. Traditionally the government has not allowed deductions to be made on income tax returns from another revenue-producing federal tax. Also, it is up to Congress to decide what is deductible and it has decided that the federal excise tax is not.

Ex-GOP leader among 13 freed in sex case

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A judge's ruling that police acted illegally to spy on a men's rest room has freed 13 persons of sex-perversion charges, including a former Republican State Chairman Gaylord Parkinson.

Superior Court Judge Verne Warner said the search warrant issued for surveillance in the May 60, department store in Mission Valley last August and September was illegal.

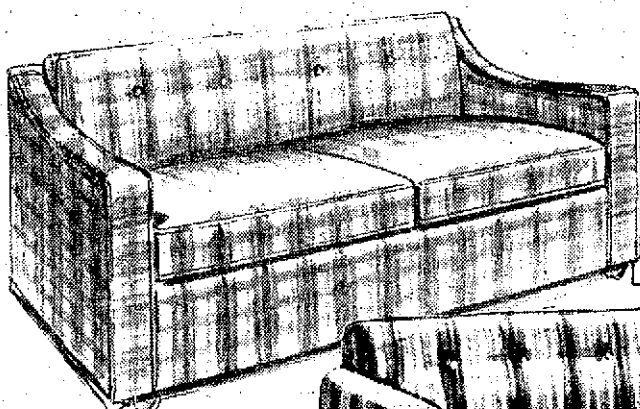

The warrant had been challenged by attorneys for Parkinson, 56, of La Mesa, a member of the San Diego County Planning Commission, and 12 other men. Warner ruled Wednesday it was too broad and amounted to an exploratory warrant.

Police built a small stage and peered down into the rest room through a grilled partition.

The procedure violated Penal Code sections that say warrants must spell out specifically any material to be seized and describe persons to be arrested, Warner said.

Food price up 14% last year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The average weekly cost of domestically produced farm items rose $4.09, or 14 per cent, in 1974 over prices of the previous year, and middleman prices accounted for more than four-fifths of the increase, the Agriculture Department reported Friday.

The average cost of a market basket of food used by USDA to gauge prices was a record $1.750 for the entire year. That was an increase of $213 from 1973 and included $180 more for middlemen and a $33 gain for farmers.

On a weekly basis, market-basket food cost a typical household $33.65 last year, compared with $29.56 a week in 1973, the figures showed.

The increase of $4.09 a week included $3.46 more for middlemen who transport, process and sell food, and 63 cents more for farmers who produce it.

Department officials cautioned, however, that the 1974 annual market-basket figures were "tentative and preliminary" and would be revised later.

of the 1973 retail price increase.

As used by USDA, the market basket includes 85 retail items and is based on quantities large enough to feed a theoretical household of 3.2 persons for an entire year. Experts caution that the figures do not correspond to actual family food spending and are used mainly to illustrate changes in marketing costs.

For example, imported food items and seafood are not included in the statistics.

The middleman share, also called the farm-retail spread or marketing margin, includes all of the costs to deliver and process food between the farmer and consumer. Profits are included but not identified.

BASED ON the preliminary evidence, the 1974 market-basket cost of $1.750 was up about 14 per cent from 1973.

In 1974 the middleman share was $1.016 and the farm portion $734 during the year. Compared with 1973 figures the middleman share was up 21.5 per cent and the farm share 4.7 per cent.

But the farmer's share of consumer market-basket spending declined in the closing months of last year while the middleman spread continued to widen, the new figures showed. At the same time the total retail cost of basket items continued to climb, putting further pressure on the consumer food budget.

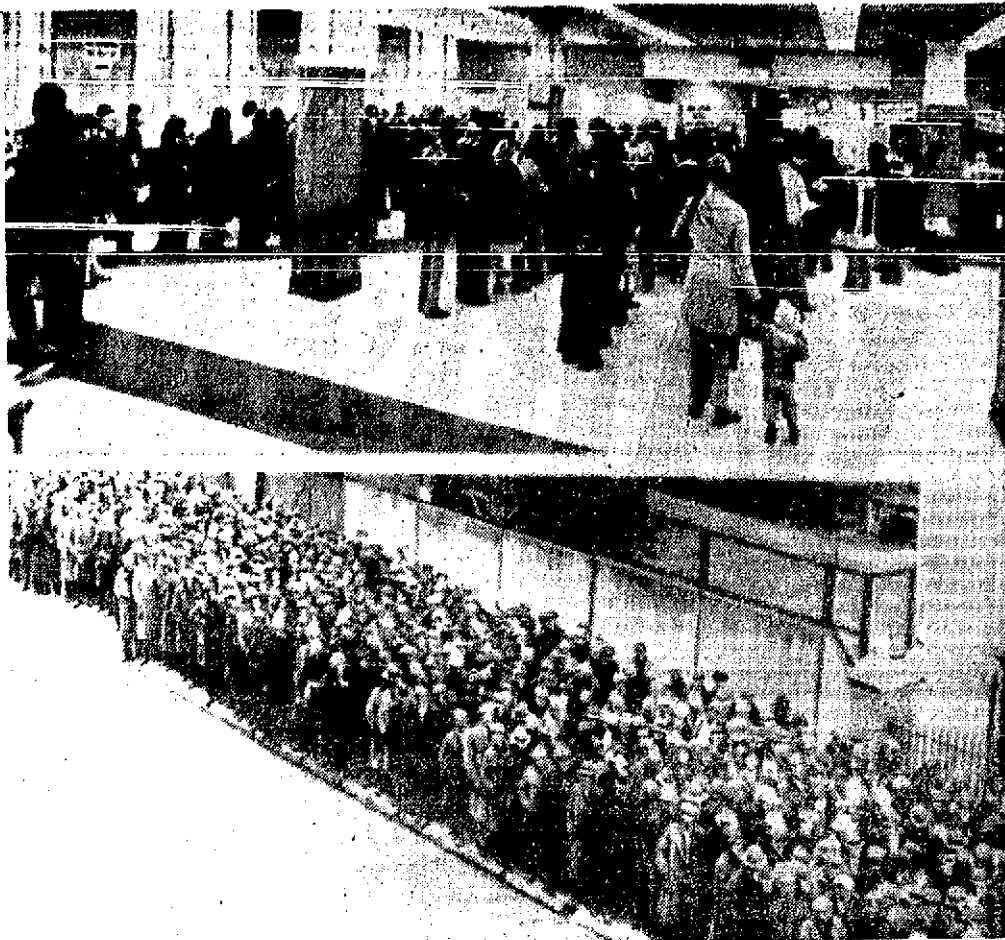

In December, the figures showed, the basket cost an annual rate of $1.813 at retail stores, a gain of eight-tenths of one per cent from November. Department experts have predicted that 1975 food prices will continue to gain at their 1974 rate at least through midyear.

The December figures showed the farm value of market-basket products dropped 1.2 per cent from November while the middleman portion increased 2.3 per cent during the month.

Campbell kids us not; soup's off

CAMDEN, N.J. (UPI) — Everything is not "mmm mmm good" at the Campbell Soup Co. these days.

The firm announced Friday it has laid off 2,350 employees in its 26 plants during the past month and 124 workers at its general offices here this week because of declining soup sales.

Wage gains average 9.8 pct.

Union strikes set record

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Union workers staged a record number of strikes in 1974 and boosted their wages an average of 9.8 per cent in the first state of major contracts negotiated during the year, the government reported Friday.

Officials attributed the intensive strike activity in part to a backlash generated by the end of wage-price controls, which terminated April 30.

An estimated 5,900 strikes started in 1974, over 500 more than a year earlier and the highest number of stoppages ever recorded," the Bureau of Labor Statistics said in its report.

The 9.8 per cent figure reflected the average first-year wage boost provided in 1,171 wage contract settlements, covering some five million unionized workers in non-farm industries.

While that increase exceeded the average 5.8 per cent gain achieved in 1973 and the 7.3 per cent of 1972, it fell well short of the 11.6 per cent average boosts provided by 1970 and 1971 contracts.

Labor officials said year-to-year comparisons can be misleading because different industries and unions are involved. The 1971 settlements, for example, included a major autoworkers settlement.

Multi-year settlements reached in 1974 provided an average annual increase of 7.3 per cent over the full life of the contract, the report said.

The reported increases, however, do not reflect the gains provided by cost of living escalator provisions, a feature being sought by an increasing number of unions.

The labor report said cost of living clauses were introduced into 164 contracts covering 869,000 workers in 1974.

Settlements containing such escalator clauses boosted average first-year income gains to 11.7 per cent, combining the wage increase and the escalator adjustment for the first year.

4th quarter earnings off

3 big oil firms show profit gains

NEW YORK (AP) — Three big oil companies reported Friday that their fourth quarter earnings increases lagged far behind the gains for the rest of 1974.

But for the full year, Texaco, Inc.'s profits rose 23 per cent. Mobil Corp.'s 22 per cent and Standard Oil Co. of California 15 per cent.

Texaco, the nation's second biggest oil firm, reported that fourth quarter earnings after taxes were nearly 29 per cent lower than the like period a year ago. Mobil's quarterly net plunged 50 per cent from the comparable 1973 period and SoCal's fourth quarter results were only 3 per cent higher.

All three oil companies referred to "continuing efforts by the oil producing nations" to cut into their profits as a chief factor in the fourth quarter earnings fall-off.

Texaco also said a change this past year to the last-in, first-out (LIFO) method of accounting, aimed at neutralizing the effects inflation has on inventory profits, pared its 1974 earnings by $196.7 million, and its fourth quarter earnings by $35.2 million.

A similar accounting change by SoCal reduced its earnings for 1974 by $250 million, the company said.

Texaco's fourth quarter net totaled $319.8 million or $1.18 a share compared with $453.5 million or $1.66 a share in the fourth quarter of 1973 — the period when the oil embargo and world energy scarcities first led to ballooning oil company profits.

For the year, Texaco earned $1.6 billion or $5.84 a share, ahead of 1973's $1.3 billion or $4.75 a share.

Mobil, the third-ranked oil firm, said fourth quarter earnings came to $136.3 million or $1.34 a share, down from $278.1 million or $2.73 a share the same time a year ago. Quarterly revenues totaled $5.41 billion, compared with $378 billion the year before.

Mobil's 1974 earnings, meanwhile, increased to $1.04 billion or $1.02 a share, against $849.3 million or $8.34 a share in 1973. Revenues were up to $20.37 billion, compared with 1973's $12.76 billion.

SoCal, the fifth largest oil company, posted fourth quarter net profits of $293 million or $1.72 a share, a slight gain from the $283 million or $1.67 a share a year ago. Revenues totaled $5.3 billion, up from the previous year's $2.7 billion.

SoCal's 1974 net after taxes grew to $970 million or $5.71 a share, from $844 million or $4.97 a share. Revenues were $18.8 billion compared with 1973's $8.9 billion.

In a separate statement, Texaco's chairman, Maurice F. Granville, said capital spending plans are being lowered to $1.8 billion in 1975 a cut of $300 million. He said the move was required by

Russ production shorts consumers

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union increased its heavy industrial output last year but only at the expense of the consumer, final statistics showed Friday.

In an economic summary for 1974, the government newspaper Izvestia said three key indicators — gross industrial output, heavy industry, and industrial productivity — surpassed plans for the year.

But the newspaper reported failures to meet consumer goods and agricultural targets, the latter a victim of bad weather. It complained of shoddy quality and lack of variety in consumer goods. Last year was the fourth of the current five-year plan. Even though targets already had been revised downward from when the plan was first drawn up, they were not met in the sectors most affecting the average consumer — light industry, agricultural output, per capita real income, retail trade and new housing.

Average monthly earnings for factory workers went up from 134.90 to 140.70 rubles — $184.51 to $192.75 at the inflated official exchange rate. But factory workers only make up about one-third of the working population.

Third of auto workers idled

DETROIT (AP) — More than one-third of the nation's auto workers will be on layoffs next week as the car manufacturers reshuffle production schedules because of falling sales.

Nearly 248,000 of the industry's 687,000 hourly employees will be off the job starting Monday, an increase of 20,000 from this week. About 185,000 are on indefinite furloughs.

The recently offered cash rebates on some new models helped push mid-January car sales over the low early-January levels. But deliveries in the latest 10-day period were down 15 per cent from the year before to their slowest pace in 14 years.

Worsening sales rates this model year have left the nation's dealers with a record 100-day inventory of unsold models. The burgeoning supply, estimated at 1.7 million cars, has risen in the past three months despite efforts by the firms to trim their stockpiles through massive plant shutdowns and layoffs.

The companies are closing 16 assembly operations next week, compared to 11 this week, when 228,000 workers were off the job.

Ford Motor Co. said Friday it is recalling on Monday 20,850 workers who were on temporary layoff this week. At the same time Ford is placing another 43,450 on layoff, raising its temporary furloughs to 44,550.

THE NATION'S No. 2 auto maker also is laying off another 1,725 hourly workers indefinitely, raising open-ended layoffs to 33,125.

Ford is closing five car operations, four truck lines and eight of its 46 manufacturing plants next week and curtailing operations at another 12 manufacturing plants.

In all, 77,675 of Ford's 177,000 hourly employees, or 44 per cent of its blue-collar work force, will be off the job Monday. The layoffs do not include 8,000 workers Ford has pared from its employment roles in the past year by not replacing employees who quit, retired or die.

About 106,000 workers, or 30 per cent of General Motors' 370,000-member hourly work force, will be off the job next week when the firm keeps three car plants shut. GM said 6,000 workers will be on temporary layoffs for the week, compared with 10,455 this week, and an estimated 100,000 workers will be on open-ended furloughs.

More than half of Chrysler's 117,000 workers are scheduled for layoffs next week, when the firm will have three car plants shut down.

CHRYSLER layoffs starting Monday will total 62,950, including 51,000 on indefinite furlough.

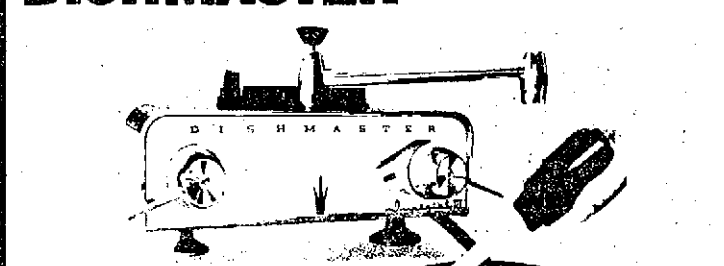

American Motors is idling 450 workers in the company's first indefinite layoffs since the sales slump began 16 months ago.

GARDENING

Thorny shrub for you

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Pyracantha is a desirable shrub in gardens. One must handle it with heavy leather gloves. It is one of the thorniest shrubs.

It provides bright red berries used in Christmas Season decorations. They also add color in the garden. The blossoms are almost white.

Pruning should not be done when the shrubs are flowering. Flowers cut off at that time can't produce red berries at Christmas time.

The gardener who has a young plant must be patient. It finally will bear berries annually.

One reason the plant produces no berries for a year or two may be its confined roots. Upon discovering ample room the roots grow fast. The branches grow moderately fast. After an extended period of time the roots slow down to moderate, steady growth, and the plant begins to bear berries annually.

Pyracantha may be trained on supports to cover a fence or a wall. Grown as a hedge, it is a barrier against invaders such as children, pets, or prowlers.

Lawns can be helped and crab grass overcome this spring by using a turf fertilizer containing an herbicide that inhibits (sterilizes) the crab grass weed seeds. Now's the time to get after those prospective weeds. The herbicide also tackles the winter annual (poa annua) grass seeds that haven't yet sprouted.

Weedy dichondra lawns can be helped by using a pre-emergent herbicide that sterilizes the seeds of blade weeds, spurge and large host of small, broad-leaf weed seeds.

Old Farmer's Riddle: What could you call someone who tends sheep in Germany? (Answer below.) Ask the Old Farmer: I had an old friend who often spoke of "hoss chestnut weather." I never asked him what it meant. Do you know? P. L., Long Beach, Calif.

Old-timers used to believe that if a man carried a hoss chestnut in his pocket it would stave off rheumatism. Our old grandfather would always grout that "a man needed his hoss chestnut," if the weather got cold and damp.

Home Hint: An unlabeled pie shell improves from storing a day or more in the refrigerator or in the freezing compartment. ... Riddle answer: A German shepherd.

Briefly . . .

Jews should not despair

By MARK CLUTTER

"For the first time in my adult life, I am afraid that the nightmare may start all over again or that it has never ended, that since 1945 we have lived in parentheses. . . . Could the Holocaust happen again?" writes a despairing Jew in a New York Times article reprinted in the Long Beach Jewish Federation News.

"Can Israel — the country, the people — survive another onslaught? How many times must it sacrifice the best of its children? How long can one go on living in a hostile world? Is it conceivable that Hitler could be victorious posthumously?"

What can a Christian say to relieve a Jew's despair?

Perhaps he can only point to history.

He can say that many a tall Christian died to end, hopefully forever, the Holocaust and all the works of Hitler.

And he can point to the distant past.

The Hebrews who chose freedom endured hunger and war for 40 years in the Arabian desert.

Throughout the centuries they suffered war, sometimes with victories, such as David's, more often with disaster. The Ten Tribes were destroyed.

The Judean nobles were carried off to Babylon. The Greeks came and then the Romans. Jerusalem was destroyed in one of history's worst sieges. (General Titus was so sickened by his bloody work that, as emperor, he abolished capital punishment.)

There followed the long centuries of the Dispersion in which the Jews ate the "alien corn" and remembered Zion.

And what do they have to show for it? Surely more than any other people. They wrote the Bible although they don't brag much about the New Testament. Their contributions to literature, music, science, medicine, scholarship, jurisprudence, theology and philosophy have been magnificent.

They have no monopoly on suffering. All nations have had their holocausts. Ours was the Civil War.

No one can entirely foresee the future but anyone sensitive to history must feel that Israel and the Jewish people will survive. They have been in worse trouble and lived through it.

"NO ONE is ever converted to a watered-down Christianity," said C.S. Lewis, the British author.

"This is absolutely true!" says Bishop Robert C. Rusk of the Episcopal Diocese of Los Angeles. "We must get back to the basics of our Christian Faith, faith that has survived the turmoil of the past. Godly folk are hungry for the bread and meat of prayer, for a faith to replace their false gods. Our churches must be places of holy converting power. We must teach our faith, our scriptural heritage, our Lord Himself."

"DID I SAY there are gods? No, I did not say that. Did I say there are no gods? No, I did not say that," said the Lord Buddha.

The appointment of a Buddhist minister, Shoko Masunaga, as chaplain of the California Senate, has aroused the wrath of the Rev. Jack Johnson, pastor of the First Southern Baptist Church of El Monte.

He says that the Senate has violated the First Commandment, condoned atheism and given its blessing to idol worship. "Buddhism denies the existence of a creator or of any being who stands outside man and the world," he writes in the California Southern Baptist.

Is Buddhism "atheistic?" That depends upon one's definition of God and of which Buddhist denomination he is talking about.

Gautama Buddha, "the Enlightened One," was concerned with proper conduct in this world. But he also believed in a patterned universe and life after death. The way one lives now determines his life in the next incarnation.

Buddhism, like Christianity, has undergone many "sea changes" since their founders walked on earth. It ranges from primitive paganism to the most sophisticated philosophy. Most Buddhist would deny that they worship an idol as most Christians would deny they worship a wooden cross.

Buddhism, of course, is a religion with churches, altars, liturgy, monks, nuns, preachers, moral laws, traditions, legends, the whole works.

The Buddhists have been established in America for 75 years.

It is unlikely that a few Buddhist prayers will harm the Senate. There have been years in which Christian prayers didn't seem to help that august body very much.

Briefly . . .

"spiritual comfort" for young Americans who have lost their way.

Dr. Robert S. Ellwood, USC professor, has published a book, "The Eagle and the Rising Sun: Americans and the New Religions of Japan" (Westminster Press, $7.95).

"These religions offer the message that an individual makes his own world through mental attitude," Dr. Ellwood writes. "They offer simple techniques for changing one's thoughts in a constructive direction and they emphasize making this world into a paradise."

So what else is new?

A young Hindu friend who is quite knowledgeable about Asiatic religions laughs at American addiction to Asiatic cults, such as Yoga, astrology, Buddhism, Taoism, Hinduism and "brand new religions."

"It's all so silly and superficial in America," he said. "Such knowledge cannot be obtained by reading a popular book."

Men devote their lives to such matters without learning anything. The Krishna Hare people, for example, haven't anything to do with real Hinduism."

On the other hand, intellectual Christians can learn much from the religions of Asia. The late Thomas Merton, monk, poet and theologian, spent his last years in Asia learning about Taoism and Zen Buddhism. He met an untimely death by electric shock while trying to repair a fan. He probably would have preferred martyrdom.

CHARITY can lead to problems. The Biscayne Boulevard Lutheran Church in Miami was asked to provide two or three days' help for 89 Haitian refugees. Of course.

But what does a church do with 89 black men who can't speak English?

The two or three days stretched on and on. The refugees are under a cloud of illegal entry. The government won't permit them to work. The church is seeking local and national aid to provide quarters and food for their guests for 60 days.

The Haitians attend church services. "I don't know how much of the service they understood," said Pastor John Merz, "but they sure do like to sing."

'Let the broken victims go free'

Rescue Mission gives 'Good News to poor'

The spirit of the Lord is upon me because he has anointed me; he has sent me to announce good news to the poor, to proclaim release for prisoners and recovery of sight for the blind; to let the broken victims go free, to proclaim the year of the Lord's favor.

—Jesus, quoting the prophet Isaiah

By MARK CLUTTER

Bill got off the Greyhound bus at the station on Long Beach Boulevard. It was 10:37 p.m. by his watch, the only valuable possession he had. But where could he pawn a watch at that hour? He had 37 cents in his pocket.

He had left Indianapolis days ago because of a vague promise of a job in a Long Beach factory. He had eaten little and had not bathed or changed clothes. He was frightened and in despair.

He sat for a long while in the bus station. He was utterly exhausted.

A policeman came in. Bill tightened his courage and asked what he should do.

"Why don't you try the Long Beach Rescue Mission?" The policeman took him outside and pointed the direction down Broadway.

When he arrived at the place with the lighted cross at 540 W. Broadway, he knocked. A man unlocked the door. (The mission is locked after hours but it is in business 24 hours a day, seven days a week.)

Although it was midnight, the mission gave Bill the four things he needed most — food, a shower, clean clothes and a place to sleep.

The next morning, after a good breakfast, he was interviewed by Wayne Teuerle, the executive director. Bill wasn't given a lot of "Jesus talk." Wayne found out what Bill's problem was and gave him some suggestions on how to solve it.

Christ, of course, is what the Rescue Mission is about, but the emphasis is low key. Teuerle doesn't use the title, "the Reverend." "Many people are shy with clergymen," he said.

There is one obligatory worship service. It is before supper. Those who wish to eat must attend.

"The people don't consider this a hardship," he said. "Most of them love it. It brings some joy and interest into their troubled lives."

The services are conducted by the various churches of the Long Beach area, including some of the largest. They bring in their singers and speakers to present talented, well-planned programs.

The Long Beach Rescue Mission is the work of two dedicated young people, Wayne, who is 35, and his wife, Jan, who is younger.

"I came to Long Beach dressed in dirty clothes and told a hard-luck story," Teuerle said. "I was unable to find anyone who could help me. That proved to me that Long Beach needed a rescue mission."

That was about three years ago.

The Teuerles told how they achieved their concern for others.

"I was a manager of a loan office in Chicago," Wayne said. "I was quite successful for a young man, but I had little happiness. I had no knowledge of the Lord. I began drinking more and more heavily."

"I realized that I had to become involved with society in some way in addition to my work. I decided that going to church was one way to start."

Church, for Wayne, turned out to be more than "social involvement." "For the first time," he said, "I saw myself as a sinner. I knew I needed a savior. I went down the aisle in 1965."

"The people in my office the next day were startled when I told them that they had a new boss, that from then on I would run the business according to Christian principles. And the people in my favorite restaurant were startled when I started attending a Christian businessmen's breakfast. I used to booze it up there."

Jan said, "My story is parallel to my husband's. I was a lonely housewife. No one can realize how lonely a housewife can be. My life changed when I found Christ."

The Teuerles took the Gospel straight. A Christian should feed the hungry, clothe the naked, care for the sick and visit those in prison. So, in 1966, when there was an opening in a rescue mission in Albuquerque, N.M., they went.

Later they went to the historic Union Rescue Mission in Los Angeles.

Wayne and Jan act, talk and dress like the middle-class people they were reared to be. Wayne usually wears a sports coat and a tie, although sometimes he wears blue jeans. They have three teen-age sons. Except that they no longer go for highballs and cigarettes they are quite suburban in bearing.

But there is a difference, a radiance. Call it joy. Call it love for their fellow human beings, even those who are not easily loved.

Wayne talked about their "clients."

"I wish people would quit identifying us with Skid Row," he said. "People think of a rescue mission as serving poor derelicts who have had too much booze, too little food and no luck at all. That's not the way it is."

"Perhaps a fourth has problems with alcohol and drugs. But a fourth has also been to college. There's an overlap, of course. But all of them are people in need. We try to help each person according to his individual need. Some of them will do well once they can achieve a bit of self-respect and find work."

"Our purpose is to lead them to Christ. Our success is hard to evaluate. Last year we served 64,807 meals to men and helped 425 women. There were 841 decisions for Christ."

"We have no way of knowing how many stick with their decisions. And we cannot know how much we have influenced people who say nothing to better lives. Once in awhile we get a letter of thanks. This makes us happy."

The Rescue Mission looks a little like a church and a little like a barracks. Everything is plain and spotlessly clean. The men sleep in two-level military bunks. The food too is plain. At the time of this interview the volunteer cook was preparing a huge mess of macaroni and cheese.

"Our doors are open to everyone, whatever his need," Wayne said.

But the doors can also be closed. There are a few men who make trouble wherever they go.

Women lost in a big city have a problem worse than men. What does a girl do who has only 37 cents in her pocket? Her troubles are multiplied if she has two small children clinging to her frayed hem. There is little social machinery to help such women.

The Rescue Mission has its Lydia Lodge. It does not look like a barracks. On the contrary, it is a homey, grandmotherly old place with comfortable furniture, a piano and a TV. The women sleep three to a room. Lydia Lodge cared for 425 women and 280 children last year.

"The problems of women are greater than they used to be," Jan said. "More and more women are leaving home for various reasons. There are many girl hitchhikers who seek our help."

The Long Beach Rescue Mission depends entirely upon contributions. Much of Wayne's time is devoted to fund-raising efforts with religious and service groups.

The Rescue Mission has some strange enemies. The numerous neighborhood bars, many of which are rather slummy, feel that the mission is damaging the neighborhood. They have circulated petition to close it.

"Actually, petty crime has declined in this neighborhood since our arrival," Wayne said. "And we are here to help the people the bars throw out."

GOINGS ON

Dr. Earl D. Radmacher, president of the Western Conservative Baptist Seminary in Portland, Ore., will be the speaker at the Bethany Baptist Church, 2250 Clark Ave., Sunday at 6:30 p.m.

Willie Crawford, Dodgers outfielder, will be the guest of honor at a parent-and-child breakfast at Temple Beth Shalom, 3635 Elm Ave., Sunday at 10 a.m.

A musical ensemble of eight Biola College students will perform at the morning worship service at Los Altos Brethren Church, 6565 Stearns Ave., Sunday at 10:45.

Elizabeth Barrett and friends will present a program on their work with Samoan youth last summer at Belmont Heights United Methodist Church, Third Street and Termino Avenue, Sunday at 1 p.m.

"Return to Sodom," a film authored by David Wilkerson, will be shown Wednesday, 7 p.m., at the Cerritos First Assembly, 12061 Del Amo Blvd.

A "Musical Pot-pourri" will be presented at New Life Community Church, 18800 S. Norwalk Blvd., Artesia, Sunday at 8:30 p.m. The musicians are from Long Beach Christian Reformed, Emanuel Reformed of Paramount, and El Dorado Park Community.

Grace Methodist Church, Third Street and Junipero Avenue, will burn its mortgage at the Sunday, 11 a.m., worship service. The old church building was destroyed by fire more than 10 years ago, and the new building is now paid for. The Rev. Stan Brown, pastor at the time of the disaster, will preach.

"A Spiritual Emphasis on Family Life" is the theme of a series of meetings to be conducted by Evangelist Ken Poure at the First Baptist Church of Lakewood, 5336 Arbor Road, Long Beach. On Sunday there will be meetings at 9 and 10:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday there will be meetings for adults at 7 p.m. There are also special events for children and young people.

"An Hour With Brahms" will be the theme of a music and lecture program by Ken Laurence at the meeting of the Theosophical Society Sunday, 3 p.m., at the YWCA, 550 Pacific Ave.

Johnie Mae Chambers will be the soloist at a recital of the Young Adult Choir at St. John Baptist Church, 741 E. Tenth St., Sunday at 4 p.m.

Doxa Unlimited, 758 Long Beach Blvd., will hold open house a week from today at 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Doxa is a religiously oriented nonprofit drug rehabilitation program sponsored by Calvary Light Assembly, 2094 Cherry Ave.

Col. and Mrs. Milton S. Agnew will present a program of pictures, tapes and lecture at the Salvation Army, 455 E. Spring St., Sunday, 6 p.m. The Agnews recently returned from a mission trip to Zaire, Kenya, Rhodesia and South Africa. The colonel will also preach at the 10 a.m. worship service.

POSITIVE THINKING

by Norman Vincent Peale

Victory over pain

Are you tired of being sick? There are resources of health that can serve you.

Are you tired of being weak? There are resources of strength that can rise up in you.

Are you tired of being ineffectual? There are reserves of efficiency that can come to your aid.

Are you tired of pain? There is a technique of positive thinking that can bring you victory over pain.

Dr. Charles Richard Alsop Gilbert, a noted Washington, D.C. obstetrician and gynecologist, has put the techniques of positive thinking into practice in his work with expectant mothers and, as a result, has developed a new method for lessening the pains of childbirth.

"A lesson may be learned," writes Dr. Gilbert in his book, "Childbirth," "from the true story of a native of the wilderness of Central Australia, who was placed in the hold of a ship and brought to the United States several years ago. He was kept blindfolded until he was brought into the center of a large West Coast city.

Then, the blindfold was removed. Since he had never been in a city before, he reacted with terror to his new surroundings, even though he could see other people around him calmly going about their business. He had never seen an automobile, and he was frightened by traffic. An airplane roaring overhead seemed a huge beast of prey and he cringed. The skyscrapers seemed about to crash onto his head and his impulse was to run rather than risk being crushed under the huge buildings.

"At the moment when this poor savage was further frightened by a young newsboy screaming the headlines of the day in (to him) incomprehensible language, he chanced to scratch his right hand on a pin. Under ordinary circumstances, this pain would have been little felt by him. But suddenly, because of his strange environment, the pain became multiplied a thousand-fold, and he cried out in terror.

"Yet, it is a fact that this same aborigine previously had had his left arm amputated in his native surroundings in the Australian bush without benefit of anesthesia, and had not even whimpered!"

Dr. Gilbert then goes on to point out that first he attempts to acquaint his patients fully with exactly what is going to happen to them and then he motivates them to think positively. The doctor must, he says, help his patients not only medically and physically, but also spiritually, if they are to win a victory over pain.

Victory over pain, over sickness, over ineffectuality can be achieved by positive thinking. Almighty God has put into us an absolutely remarkable power to live our lives to their fullest potential. To do this, we need to keep rekindling the vital spark within us.

The way to rekindle that spark is daily and constantly to affirm God's power in your own life. As you learn to do this you will find that, all of a sudden, things will open up. There will come at first a moment or two of tremendous hope, of an exciting sense of power. In that moment you know that you can master life. But then it may seem to fade and you ask yourself why you can't hold on to this wonderful feeling of victory. But you can, really, with practice. If you are not doing this it is because you don't believe enough either in the God in you or in yourself. You aren't thinking positively enough. But, if you really learn to believe and to think positively about God and His will, you can in time achieve real victory over any pain or difficulty.

L.B. Council to hear world food expert

The Rev. Dr. C. Dean Freudenberger, an authority on world food problems, will be the guest speaker at the 22nd annual dinner of the Long Beach Area Council of Churches Jan. 31 at the First Congregational Church, Cedar Avenue and Third Street.

Dr. Freudenberger has been a student of international agriculture for 23 years. He has served as an agricultural missionary in Zaire.

New officers will be installed by Rabbi Sydney S. Guthman. The new president will be the Rev. Roger Lautzenhiser, pastor of the Lakewood Village Community Church.

Spotlight Awards will honor a clergyman, a layman, a laywoman and a youth.

Belief in power of religion grows

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — A growing number of Americans — although still a minority — believe religion is increasing its influence on their society, according to the latest Gallup Poll.

The survey showed 31 per cent of respondents believe the influence of religion is growing, while 56 per cent believe its effect is waning.

In 1970, the last time the question was asked, only 14 per cent believed the influence of religion was growing as compared to 75 per cent who felt its impact was lessening.

The present survey represents a reversal of the long term trend that began in 1957, when the question first was asked. At that time, only 14 per cent felt the influence of religion was decreasing.

Thereafter, the percentage grew with each successive survey, reaching 75 per cent in 1970.

A 64-year-old Protestant clergyman said he felt more people were turning to religion because of current events, including the state of the economy.

"The decline of affluence and the shock of crises will incline more people to see the timeless values and sources of hope," he said.

According to the poll, young adults are most likely to see religion increasing its influence, with 37 per cent responding in that fashion. In 1970, only 14 per cent of young adults questioned felt that way.

The poll also showed a direct correlation between church attendance and the degree of influence the public believes religion has on society.

THE ANSWER

Martin N. Heaffer, C.S.B., will speak in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, 440 Elm Ave., Sunday, 3 p.m., on "There's Always an Answer," a way of facing the problems that plague so many today.

"HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO STEP OUT INTO THE WORLD AND SAY THAT?"

Bellflower church has fine record

Calvary Baptist Church of Bellflower, 14722 Clark Ave., has reason for pride as it plans to celebrate its 39th birthday, says Mrs. Louisa Page, the church clerk.

In the first 28 years the membership increased 33 per year on the average, she said. In the last 11 years it has grown 262 a year. The membership is now 2,764.

In the 39 years exactly 100 members have gone out from the church as missionaries, pastors or full-time Christian workers.

Calvary gave $53,000 to missions last year and plans to give $60,000 this year.

Sunday School attendance averages 1,411. Calvary is listed among the 100 largest Sunday Schools in America.

The pastor is Dr. H. Frank Collins. The Rev. Jon Larson is associate pastor. The Rev. Roger Holland is youth minister; and Duane Sheets is minister of music.

REALLY HEAL?

Yes, it does. Because the healing Principle taught and practiced by Christ Jesus can apply to anyone at any time. New proofs of its healing power occur every day. Healing in Christian Science means much more than physical release.

It means a victory over fear. A clearer understanding of God, and of yourself. You're invited to learn more at our Sunday service. The Bible Lessons you'll hear will explain more of how Christian Science heals. Won't you come this Sunday!

As Jarman retains seniority

More Democrats may switch

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes says other disgruntled Democrats may follow 21-year-veteran Rep. John Jarman in switching parties.

"I have not been contacted by any members who ask me what I think about it," Rhodes said in an interview, "but I hadn't been contacted by him, either, until Tuesday."

He said Jarman, an Oklahoman, called him at home to alert him to the switch and subsequently talked to President Ford.

"The thing that swayed his decision, of course, was the realization that the Democratic Caucus and the Democrats on the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee were moving against people who were of his ideology," Rhodes said.

"HE FELT they were being discriminated against and there was no longer any good reason for him to stay in the Democratic Party."

The caucus in the last two weeks kicked out three veteran chairmen, two of whom were conservatives like Jarman.

Jarman had been third-ranked Democrat on the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee.

Rhodes said Jarman had asked his help to retain seniority in a transfer to the Republican side of either the Foreign Affairs or Science and Astronautics Committee.

"I found I couldn't really do much for him on Foreign Affairs, but I could put him on Science and Astronautics in the No. 3 spot," Rhodes said, subject to agreement Monday by the Republican conference and its committee-appointment panel.

Jarman would thus bump Rep. John W. Wylder, R-N.Y., from the third-ranked GOP slot on the committee, which was renamed Science and Technology, effective this session.

Wylder is beginning his seventh term in the House.

RHODES said Jarman's transfer to the committee would eliminate the proposed appointment of Rep. Gary A. Myers, R-Pa., a freshman.

When Jarman announced his switch Thursday, he said, "In the last few days, I have seen the (Democratic) caucus taken over by some of the same elements which took the party over in 1972 and brought about the most massive defeat ever suffered by a major political party in this country."

He said the intention of those controlling the caucus is "to do everything possible to force their liberal views on this Congress and on the country by nullifying the seniority system and punishing those who do not adhere to the liberal party line as laid down by the caucus."

Social Security deficit of $7 billion forecast by 1976

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Social Security funds will fall $7 billion short of meeting benefit payments by 1976 unless Congress boosts payroll taxes or dips into general revenues, a government advisory group reported Friday.

Officials of the Social Security Advisory Council, which monitors the program for Congress, said at a briefing they will recommend the deficit be made up by drawing on the general fund financed primarily by income taxes.

"There will be a definite shortfall (in 1976) of about $7 billion," council member Jerome Van Gorkom of Chicago told reporters.

He said the principal recommendation the council will make to Congress next month will be to keep worker payroll taxes at their present rates but transfer the portion earmarked for Medicare to the support of old age and retirement benefits.

The Medicare money then would be made up by dipping into general revenues, the officials said.

The 13-member panel was created by Congress to study the Social Security system and make recommendations for its improvement. Basically, it found that the trust funds used to provide benefits for more than 33 million men, women and children are slowly running out of money.

Van Gorkom said the trust fund deficit is increasing faster than anticipated and will get much worse in the next century when more older persons are drawing benefits and fewer young workers are contributing — a problem created by falling birth rates.

The deficit dates back at least to 1973 and has doubled since then, Van Gorkom said. Not only should the trust funds be receiving an additional $3 billion to $4 billion next year to keep cash reserves healthy, they also will be losing that much more primarily because of inflation, giving the fund a deficit ranging from $6 billion to $8 billion.

Council members earlier had agreed to recommend higher payroll taxes on middle and upper income workers, but "on more mature consideration" decided to recommend using general revenues, Van Gorkom said.

WALL STREET BOMBING

movement were killed and 11 bystanders injured.

The note ended with a call for the release of five Puerto Rican prisoners convicted in the 1954 attack on the House of Representatives in Washington. Police said those five were still in federal prison.

The FAIRN claimed responsibility for planting five bombs in Manhattan buildings last Oct. 26, and a booby trap bomb that blew up in the face of a rookie policeman in Harlem in December.

Jerry Varvasis, a waiter at the tavern for 12 years, said, "There was a horrible explosion. I thought it was a bomb. The whole area was shaking like hell and everybody ran for the doors."

Varvasis said he saw "one man bleeding — badly cut and injured. There was a priest administering him last rites."

Mayor Abe Beame, who rushed to the scene from city hall and visited the injured at the hospital, condemned the bombing as a "senseless act of terror."

Executive Assistant Fire Commissioner Cesar Sansevero said, "We're sure it was an explosive device. We've ruled out everything else."

He said bomb squad experts using special equipment had detected traces of cordite, a chemical used in many explosives, in the building.

Robert Norden, the owner of Fraunces Tavern, said the explosion went off either inside the restaurant or just outside.

"There was a full dining room," he said. "Then, all of a sudden, there was this tremendous explosion — all the windows were blown out and the staircase to the second floor Anglers Club just collapsed."

Charles Anderson, one of the first firefighters on the scene, said he heard the blast from his fire house four blocks away.

"We saw people bleeding on the sidewalk, screaming in agony as we pulled up to the curb," he said.

6 students injured in school riot

ONTARIO (AP) — Police dispersed an estimated 700 students Friday in a racial disturbance at Chaffey High School in Ontario and authorities closed the school at noon.

The disturbance was triggered by a fight between a Mexican-American student and an Anglo student.

One student was hospitalized and five others were injured, but the principal, Dr. Fred Adams, said the extent of their injuries was not known.

An estimated 20 police from Ontario and surrounding communities quelled the disturbance in about an hour. Officers arrested 25 students, but no formal charges were filed and the students were released to their parents.

It was the second day of racial tension at the school. Dr. Adams said, "We had six occurrences on the campus Thursday, but we were able to contain and stabilize them and not call upon the police."

Adams said he estimates that 500 to 700 students were involved in the disturbance.

'POLITICS'

come for "politically unpopular decisions."

IN A counterattack on Congress' efforts to change many parts of his proposed economic-energy program, Ford announced his intention to go directly to the American people for support.

"A proposal such as the 5 per cent ceiling on Social Security increases for 1975 is a perfect target for irresponsible politicking," he said in a speech prepared for delivery to a news broadcasters' meeting.

"There is a legitimate national concern, which I share, about the impact of inflation on the fixed incomes of older Americans."

"It may be good politics for some critics to suggest we start reducing the growth in federal spending somewhere else. But the time has arrived when politically unpopular decisions must be made."

He noted that the ceiling on Social Security increases would be coupled with his plans for a moratorium on new federal spending and a ceiling on federal salaries.

"I WILL continue to take my case directly to the American public," Ford said. "Just as I believe it is the President's duty to make the hard choices, I also believe the choices must be explained to the most important forum there is — the citizens."

PRICE HOPE

Department official, who did not want to be named, agreed with Parsky's assessment of the situation.

"Under present conditions, I don't see oil prices dropping," he said.

Parsky said that although it is always possible that the oil producing nations could lower their prices at any time for political reasons, "that's not been suggested" in any of his recent trips to the Middle East.

The average price of world oil now is about $10 to $11 a barrel, up from about $2 a barrel in October 1973.

The realization that oil prices are not coming down was disappointing to the administration and to Parsky and Treasury Secretary William E. Simon in particular.

Simon and Parsky visited Saudi Arabia in July, in part to encourage the Saudis to try to lower oil prices on their own, independent of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC). They thought they had made progress.

"We thought the potential for a unilateral or other price decrease was real," Parsky said. "We've subsequently learned that this is not going to be done on a unilateral basis."

Since it has concluded it will be unable to win oil product reductions from foreign producers, the administration is responding by forcing domestic oil prices even higher than world prices to encourage energy conservation and development of new sources of energy supply.

IN EFFECT, the administration is fighting high prices with high prices, since the impact on the consumer would be a 10 to 12-cent a gallon increase in prices of gasoline and home heating oil, by the administration's own estimates.

The program includes a $3-a-barrel import tariff on oil, a $2 excise tax for each barrel of domestic oil, removal of price controls from all domestic oil, an excise tax on natural gas, decontrol of new natural gas and other measures.

The initial reaction from Congress has been highly unfavorable, however.

Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., released a report prepared for him by the Library of Congress that said the Ford program would increase energy costs to Americans by $50.3 billion this year, and more in subsequent years.

any three-division expeditionary force for the Middle East. "He didn't hear about it because there aren't any."

The Pentagon spokesman said "we don't comment normally on contingency plans, but this is not a contingency plan."

Chancellor gave no indication who at the Pentagon had confirmed the New Republic story.

ARABS IRKED

basis for "a solid and healthy type of cooperation" between producers and consumers, adding that "a confrontation is not in anyone's interest."

Bouteflika, chairman of the meeting, called for a "new economic world order" to put an end to exploitation and intimidation of the Third World by the non-Communist industrialized nations. He declared that the industrialized countries alone were responsible for inflation because "they have been living for years beyond their means."

He warned the Western industrialized powers that their "policy of confrontation and threats is raising the danger of a world catastrophe" and said the developing countries are eager to establish a system of cooperation in the interests of all provided it is based "on justice and equity."

Bouteflika said the developed nations "are trying to destroy the efforts of the OPEC countries and halt the march of the Third World toward a new economic world order."

"BUT we face the future calmly and with confidence. While we are determined to defend our fundamental rights and confront any challenge which may be imposed on us, we have not abandoned hope for cooperation with the developed countries."

Bouteflika said the non-Communist industrial powers were trying to make a "special case" out of the energy crisis and separate it from the general problems of raw material supplies and underdevelopment.

"Yet it is perfectly clear that energy resources cannot be separated from the economic emancipation of the entire Third World," he said.

"The oil producing countries intend to play an increasingly important role as members of the Third World, and they are conscious of their heavy responsibility in the creation of a new economic world order and the protection of the interests of the non-oil producing Third World countries."

He asserted that world inflation has compromised economic development everywhere, but cannot be blamed on "the adjustment of the prices of certain raw materials."

THE industrialized countries, "having built their prosperity on the shameful exploitation of the Third World's resources, remain deaf to appeals for understanding and are trying to drag them down into ever greater poverty," he added.

In the interview with Yamani, the Saudi oil minister was asked to comment on an Algerian suggestion that the oil producing countries which have neither the population nor the framework to absorb their own oil revenues should cut down production so that their income would not greatly exceed their needs.

"It is a good suggestion but I doubt if it can be done," he replied. "Take the case of Saudi Arabia, for example. We could easily cut down our production, but this would only result in our accumulating even more funds because prices would go up immediately, and paradoxically, our income would double."

"I doubt if you can solve the problem of accumulating funds by simply reducing production. It must be solved by other means."

ASKED what solution he saw to the petrodollar problem, Yamani said "first of all we must find ways to develop Saudi Arabia's own industry. And, secondly, we must help the developing world."

'Splish, splash. . .takin' a bath'

Everything was just ducky at Scherer Park Friday when this Pekin decided to take a splash. With the mercury hovering in the low 70s—a bit unseasonal even for sunny Southern California—the small pond in the park proved an acceptable respite from curious kids, nearby street traffic and all those other human things that tend to unnerve a duck. Staff photographer Bob Shumway, however, used his camera lens for this fowl bit of privacy invasion during a dive, splish, splash and clean routine. Everything was naturally au naturel for the duck—you might even say like water rolling off a duck's back—but spectators in the park got a chuckle or two out of the show. After all, it's nice for kids in this concrete-bound society to know that not every duck in town wears a blue sailor top and answers to the Disney name of Donald.

OIL ISLANDS off Long Beach shoreline show that industry and aesthetics can be compatible, according to international flower arrangement judge George W. Smith of York, England.

Island landscaping hailed as beautification in action

Landscaping on Long Beach's oil islands "really shows beautification in action," George W. Smith of York, England, international judge and lecturer on flower arrangements, said following a tour Friday.

Smith was in Long Beach to deliver the principal address at a meeting earlier in the week aboard the Queen Mary of the California Garden Clubs, Inc.

He had expressed an interest in inspecting the city's award-winning beautification program on the oil islands, and was taken on the tour by T. S. Richards, president of Thums Long Beach Co., the city's contractor in the offshore field.

Smith said the beautification is "an outstanding example by industry" of what can be done to make necessary industrial operations more compatible from an aesthetic standpoint.

Accompanying Smith and Richards on the island tour was Mrs. E. A. Schoenbaum of Palms Verdes, executive chairman of the California Garden Clubs, Inc., who said the statewide organization is studying ways and means to raise funds for beautification and conservation programs throughout the state.

Cherry Manor's owner survey said 46 pct. complete

The survey of Cherry Manor property owners to determine their preferences on alternate choices to solve the "incompatible" zoning there was 46 per cent complete as of Friday, according to City Manager John R. Mansell.

Mansell will tell the Long Beach City Council Tuesday that questionnaires distributed by the city at a Jan. 15 meeting of the property owners have been returned by 102 of the 222 properties in Cherry Manor.

Starting Monday, Mansell said, the Planning Department staff will make a house-to-house canvass of the residential area to contact those property owners who have not yet responded.

L.B. 'committed' to Poly project, renew unit told

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

Although it is too early to predict allocations of the $25.9 million which Long Beach will get over the next six years, the city is "committed" to the Poly High Redevelopment Project, members of the Project Area Committee were told Friday.

The PAC members were guests of the Long Beach Redevelopment Agency at a luncheon at the Reef Restaurant to report on latest developments in the Poly project and to give new members of both groups an opportunity to get acquainted.

Charles Eure, administrative coordinator of PAC, said he has been asked by various groups about priorities under the federal Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, by which Long Beach will receive the $25.9 million.

Harry Ladas, director of field services for the city's Department of Community Development, pointed out that 90 per cent of the first year's allocation, or about $1.3 million, already has been earmarked for the Poly project.

The federal act specifies certain areas in which the funds must be spent, Ladas said, but the final determination is the responsibility of the City Council. The act requires annual budgeting and review of the funds, he said.

Ladas said it would be "premature" at this time to try and predict future allocations of the funds, but assured PAC members that the city recognizes its commitment to complete the Poly redevelopment.

Jack DuBois, principal of Polytechnic High School and a PAC member, said he felt establishment of some sort of regular newsletter by the Redevelopment Agency, to be sent to members of the citizens committees for all Long Beach redevelopment projects "would really be helpful" in keeping members informed of the status and progress of all city projects.

Charles Haynes, another PAC member, agreed, adding that there are times when "all the committee knows is what it reads in the newspaper."

Committee member Frank Bowman further suggested that members of the Redevelopment Agency, as well as community development staff members, attend PAC meetings whenever possible.

"We're not being critical," Bowman said. "We just want to work with you."

"We all have the same goals on the Poly project," agreed John Harris, a member of the city community development staff. "We all want to see it go."

Gasoline leaked out of the crashed van and broken electric lines crackled nearby, but 18-year-old Gordon Hein of Lakewood got involved anyway.

The youth climbed into the van which had crashed into a utility pole on Seventh Street near Studebaker Road, and held a bandage to the head of the paraplegic driver until firemen arrived.

"I just felt concerned for this guy," Hein said later, recalling the Monday morning incident near Kettering Elementary School. "I knew that as long as there was no fire I wouldn't have to move him, but if it caught fire I would have moved him."

An Edison Company worker told Hein to get out of the van because the downed wires were hot, but the youth stayed inside.

Finally firemen arrived, unbolted the wheel chair from the van's floor, and Hein helped them wheel 44-year-old Howard M. Poole of Fountain Valley outside.

Poole, who was treated at Community Hospital for cuts and bruises, told officers he blacked out before the accident.

Hein, on the other hand, didn't tell anyone very much about the incident. His part in the story went untold until his employer, plumber Harry Cornish, 53, called these newspapers.

Cornish and Hein had just arrived at the elementary school about 9 a.m. for some repair work when they heard the sound of the van crashing into the utility pole.

"I looked up and saw the van coast to a stop, and then, I guess, transformers started to explode," Hein said.

"Everyone kept on driving by. Nobody stopped. I didn't see the guy in the van and I wondered if he was O.K."

"I took off running....I had to climb over a 15-foot high chain link fence at the school, then another six-foot fence."

"There was another person there, and we tried to open the driver's door, but it was jammed or something. I noticed the driver's head was bloody and he was in a wheel chair. His eyes weren't open."

"Another man came up with a crowbar. We pried the back doors open and I climbed into the van."

"I got up to the driver and saw a gash on his forehead. The wheel chair was locked to the floor. There was an elastic bandage on the dashboard and I put it on his forehead in case the bleeding got worse."

"I talked to him and tried to comfort him."

When fire department paramedics climbed into the van to treat the victim, Hein still was "holding him to keep him from sliding over, because the van was tilted."

Asked why he climbed into the van, Hein replied, "I think it's kind of sad when nobody stops to help... when nobody gets involved, because if I was in that situation, I'd want somebody to help me."

TOM SAWYER TRIALS

Tryouts for an original musical adaptation of Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer" will be held by the Long Beach Recreation Department's Ha'Penny Players at 7 p.m. Monday and Tuesday.

The Monday auditions will be at Bixby Park clubhouse, 130 Cherry Ave., and those on Tuesday evening will be at Carver School, 5335 E. Pavo St.

Singers, dancers and actors are invited to try out for the production, which is to be staged in April. No registration is required for the auditions, and those trying out are urged to "dress comfortably and come prepared to extemporize," said Dave Barton, director of the Ha'Penny Players.

A large singing and dancing cast, ranging in age from eight to 18 years, is needed for the production, Barton said. The musical adaptation was written and scored by Barton and Matt Bond, who specialize in children's theater.

Ex-officials' pleas fail, prison waits

By BOB GEIVET
Staff Writer

Two Westminster men, who were city officials when convicted of conspiracy and attempted grand theft, Friday awaited orders to begin serving their sentences, after losing their last appeal.

The State Supreme Court refused to hear appeals of Derek McWhinney, former mayor of Westminster, and Tad Fujita, a one-time planning commissioner.

They had been convicted by a Santa Ana Superior Court jury June 19, 1973, of attempting to get $10,000 from Rancher George Murai in return for what he claimed would be a guarantee that his agricultural lease on Orange County-owned park property at Fountain Valley would be renewed.

Murai claimed he paid $5,000 to Fujita, who claimed he was pressured by McWhinney to be "collector." The money, Murai said he was told, would go to Supervisor Robert W. Battin's campaign.

The jury acquitted both McWhinney and Fujita of conspiracy to commit bribery and two counts each of soliciting bribery.

Each was sentenced to prison for terms of from one to 10 years, but Fujita won a suspended sentence on condition he pay a $2,500 fine and serve six months in the Orange County Jail. McWhinney was ordered to prison for two terms of the same length, but Judge John Flynn agreed to dismiss the sentence for attempted grand theft upon McWhinney's completion of the term for conspiracy to commit grand theft.

Since their convictions and sentencing, the two have been out on bond pending their appeals.

Doctors using ultrasound waves in heart diagnosis

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

Doctors are using ultrasound waves to explore the contours and motion of the human heart in an effort to pinpoint certain heart disorders. The technique is being employed at St. Mary Medical Center.

Called echocardiography, the procedure, doctors say, is frequently more accurate than other techniques employed in the diagnosis of heart disease. In addition, it can provide information that can't be obtained in any other way.

Echocardiography channels a beam of sound waves to a patient's heart, and the physician examines reflected echoes that can be seen on a monitoring device. The sound waves are inaudible.

Dr. A. S. Abbasi, a cardiologist and St. Mary's specialist in echocardiography, says the following about the procedure:

"Since the procedure is painless and non-traumatic, it can be repeated as frequently as necessary without any discomfort or danger to the patient."

Another advantage is that no radiation is involved.

Abbasi says that the procedure is indicated for the patient with an enlarged heart or a heart murmur. It's also prescribed for patients who experience shortness of breath or heart failure without any apparent cause.

"Often," says Abbasi, "an echocan pinpoints such hidden heart disease earlier than other diagnostic devices."

Many cardiologists also prefer sonar waves to evaluate heart-valve and heart-muscle disorders. The technique is regarded as a superior method of differentiating heart-muscle disease from a constrictive condition of the pericardium, the fibrous sac that surrounds the heart.

In some instances, echocardiography may eliminate the need for a heart catheterization or other technique that requires inserting plastic tubing in a blood vessel and injecting fluorescent dye so that the heart's valves or arteries can be examined.

Specifically, echocardiography utilizes a quartz crystal transducer, resembling a small microphone, that emits a high-frequency sound beam. The beam travels to the target tissues or organs and bounces back a series of echoes. The intensities and time interval lag indicate the density and structure depth of the area scanned.

"Because sound waves cannot pass through bone, we must channel our beam between the patient's ribs," Abbasi says. "We call these small openings cardiac windows."

"By rotating the transducer over the patient's heart, we gradually receive a buildup of data which is magnified and displayed on an oscilloscope—a monitoring device that looks like a small television screen."

The electronic image can be photographed with a Polaroid camera or continuously recorded on photosensitive graph paper for the patient's medical record.

For the patient, the procedure means a quick, painless test that can be performed as an outpatient procedure or at the hospital bedside. An echocan of the heart requires about 30 minutes.

An average of 60 patients undergo the procedure, each month at St. Mary's.

Abbasi, who also is director of the Non-Invasive Laboratory at UCLA medical school, says that further refinements of the procedure are being developed.

One called sector-scanning will permit the registration of a number of images simultaneously, making a larger sector of the heart visible. In regular scanning, only a half-inch area of the heart is scanned at one time.

Abbasi is a member of the Royal College of Physicians and the American College of Physicians, and a Fellow of the American College of Cardiology.

Cal. shuts 11 liquor dealers

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The state, in one of the toughest actions of its kind, Friday shut down 11 major liquor wholesalers in Northern California for allegedly making illegal kickbacks, officials said.

Peter Sexton, deputy director of the Department of Alcoholic Beverage, said the wholesalers, which supply a major portion of liquor for the northern part of the state, were closed for 15 days.

The action followed a lengthy investigation by the department into violations of state statutes which prohibit free services or cash rebates between liquor wholesalers and retailers.

THOSE wholesalers closed were Pacific Crown Distributors of South San Francisco; McKesson Liquor Co. of San Francisco and San Leandro; Max Sobel Wholesale Liquor Co. of San Francisco; Haas Bros. of San Francisco and Union City; D. Dinubilo of Stockton; Joseph George of Santa Clara and Ray Cavagnaro Inc. of Napa.

Also closed were Hulse Import Co. of San Francisco; Consolidated Enterprises Inc. of San Francisco; Berberian Bros. Inc. of Stockton; and Trombetta of San Rafael.

Sexton said the wholesalers were each given 45-day closures, but 30 days were suspended.

All liquor wholesalers and retailers in California must have a state license to operate.

The secret rebate charges stemmed from what the department described as "one of the biggest" statewide investigations of its kind ever.

MORE than 450 retailers were named in the investigation, with many of them already receiving heavy fines and closures.

The fine for giving secret rebates in addition to the cost of the liquor can run as high as $2,000. But Sexton said in the case of the wholesalers, which do millions of dollars of business annually, the fines were not enough.

"Shutting them down for a while will be very meaningful," Sexton said in an earlier interview with UPI.

Sexton said the closures would "choke off" the majority of major liquor wholesalers in Northern California, but he said there are smaller wholesalers still operating.

The 15-day suspensions will end Feb. 7. Sexton said if a retailer has a good stock and with smaller wholesalers operating there should not be widespread shortages of liquor.

Sante Quattrin, executive secretary of Wholesale Liquor Distributors of Northern California, said the closure "will be a considerable loss to those involved."

L.B.-L.A. ports lauded for basic safety systems

By GIL BAILEY
Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON—The U.S. Coast Guard should develop basic safety systems, including speed limits for many of the nation's ports rather than continue development of costly and highly complex electronic surveillance systems, according to a study by the General Accounting Office (GAO).

In addition, the GAO said the Coast Guard "has made limited use of its authority under the Ports and Waterways Safety Act of 1972, to regulate vessel movements in U.S. ports and waters" despite 1,700 vessel collisions in 1974 with 303 fatalities.

"A Coast Guard analysis covering two three-year periods showed excessive speed as one of the major causes of vehicle accidents.... examples are a collision in the entrance to San Francisco Bay, which resulted in an 800,000-gallon oil spill; three recent vessel collisions in the entrance to Puget Sound and 16 accidents and pollution incidents in New York Harbor from March 1972 through November 1973, the report said.

"Most major U.S. ports do not have speed limits....The only speed limit in San Francisco Bay is a 10-knot limit for vessels carrying explosives. Local port authorities in Long Beach and Los Angeles have imposed six to 15-knot speed limits. Depending on the vessel's size and location," it added.

The report specifically praised Long Beach and Los Angeles ports.

"The Ports of Long Beach and Los Angeles, which have speed limits, recognized the problem and their regulations provide for speed variations based on vessel size," it said.

However, the report criticized the Coast Guard for exercising "little control over vessel movement" in New York Harbor, the busiest in the nation.

At the moment the Coast Guard is concentrating on developing vessel traffic systems which will cost $29.6 million for the ports of San Francisco, Puget Sound, Houston-Galveston, New York, New Orleans and Valdez.

"We believe that greater benefits, in terms of reduced accidents, could be achieved by developing relatively simple or basic systems at these and other ports before advancing to sophisticated systems," the report said.

"We recommend that the secretary of Transportation require the Coast Guard to give national emphasis and direction to establishing regulations.... These actions should include more extensive use of speed limits; greater regulation over the movement of vessels carrying dangerous, combustible and polluting cargoes; and limitations on the size of tows," the GAO report concluded.

Wealthy Arab puzzled by Stark's bill

LOS ALTOS (AP)—Saudi Arabian multimillionaire Adnan Khashoggi contended Friday that a California congressman's bill to restrict foreign investment in U.S. banks "is contrary to U.S. policy as I understand it."

Rep. Fortney H. "Pete" Stark, who sold his Walnut Creek bank to Khashoggi in 1973, introduced legislation Wednesday to limit alien investors to controlling interest in one U.S. bank and to prevent alien bank chain ownership.

Khashoggi has offered $14.1 million for 650,000 special shares and control of First National Bank of San Jose, a proposal opposed by a minority of dissident bank directors.

He already owns controlling interest in Stark's former bank, Security National of Walnut Creek, and Bank of Contra Costa, also headquartered in Walnut Creek.

million in long-distance rates.

The new rates would become effective on March 4 if not suspended by the FCC.

California farm income, production set records

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—California farmers received a record $8.5 billion for their crops during 1974, with a new production high of 45.6 million tons, state officials said Friday.

The gross cash receipts of $8.5 billion represented an 18 per cent increase over 1973. Officials said the record amount was due to significant price hikes for some major crops.

"The prospects for continued strong domestic and foreign demand for farm products with further upward pressure on farm prices appear likely for 1975," said C. Brunel Christensen, director of the Department and Food and Agriculture.

Christensen said in an earlier interview that

The pattern of the proposed interstate rates is to have large increases for short-haul rates and relatively small hikes for long-haul rates.

Golden Globe awards tonight

By BOB MARTIN
TV-Radio Editor

You'll have to wait awhile for the Oscars and the Emmys — but how do the Golden Globe Awards grab you?

For TV viewers who delight in watching ceremonies honoring television and movie stars, there's a treat in store from 8:30 to 10 tonight on Channel 11.

That's when the Hollywood Foreign Press Association's 32nd annual Golden Globe Awards will be televised, live, from the Beverly Hilton Hotel in Beverly Hills.

Actor-singer John Davidson will host the program, which is being presented by Metromedia Television nationwide over a special 125-station network.

CBS, with 29 nominations, dominates the television awards categories. NBC garnered seven nominations and ABC only three.

All five nominees as best TV comedy or musical are CBS series: "All in the Family," "Carol Burnett Show," "Mary Tyler Moore Show," "Maude" and "Rhoda."

Nominated as best TV dramatic series were NBC's "Columbo" and "Police Story," CBS' "The Waltons" and "Kojak," ABC's "Streets of San Francisco" and PBS' "Upstairs, Downstairs."

BEST ACTOR nominees in the TV drama category are Mike Connors of "Mannix," Michael Douglas of "Streets of San Francisco," Peter Falk of "Columbo," Telly Savalas of "Kojak" and Richard Thomas of "The Waltons."

The women nominees are Angie Dickinson of "Police Woman," Teresa Graves of "Get Christie Love!," Michael Learned of "The Waltons," Jean Marsh of "Upstairs, Downstairs" and Lee Meriwether of "Barnaby Rums."

In the comedy-or-musical field, the nominated TV performers are Alan Alda, Edward Asner, Redd Foxx, Bob Newhart and Carroll O'Connor, for the men, and Carol Burnett, Valerie Harper, Mary Tyler Moore, Esther Rolle and Jean Stapleton, for the women.

Awards also will go to the best supporting actor and best supporting actress in a TV show.

MOTION PICTURE nominees are "Chinatown," "The Conversation," "Earthquake," "The Godfather — Part II" and "A Woman Under the Influence" in the drama category, and "The Front Page," "Harry and Tonto," "The Little Prince," "The Longest Yard" and "The Three Musketeers" for comedy or musical.

Nominated as best movie actor in a drama were James Caan in "The Gambler," Gene Hackman in "The Conversation," Dustin Hoffman in "Lenny," Jack Nicholson in "Chinatown" and Al Pacino in "The Godfather — Part II."

Actress nominees are Ellen Burstyn in "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore," Faye Dunaway in "Chinatown," Valerie Perrine in "Lenny," Gena Rowlands in "A Woman Under the Influence" and Liv Ullmann in "Scenes From a Marriage."

And, oh yes, Raquel Welch is one of five nominees as best motion picture actress in a comedy or musical, for her performance in "The Three Musketeers."

FRED STUTHMAN, who used to act with the Long Beach Community Players a number of years ago, portrays Abraham Lincoln on TV Sunday night in the drama "The Case Against Milligan," which will air from 7:30 to 8:30 on CBS (Channel 2).

LEANNA JOHNSON of Long Beach appears as Evie Radison in tonight's episode of "Emergency!" on Channel 4, from 8 to 9.

All this begins when Channel 54, operated by Chile's state television company, inaugurates its new studio in Hanga Roa, the capital and only town on the island, located 2,300 miles across the Pacific from the Chilean mainland.

Arnold beats Jordan, 60-58; Hardy ailing

By KEN PIVERNETZ
Staff Writer

The value of Neil Arnold and James Hardy to their respective high school teams was never more evident than Friday night in north Long Beach.

Arnold popped in a soft jumper along the baseline 10 feet from the basket with two seconds remaining to give Wilson a taut 60-58 Moore League victory over Jordan.

The winning basket capped the second superlative performance in three nights for the 6-2 Bruin forward, who finished with 32 points and now has 72 in two league games.

All Hardy could do was look on helplessly from the bench.

The 6-9 Jordan star, who was averaging 32 points a game, bruised the instep of his right foot after a soaring block of a shot by Arnold 3:23 into the first quarter.

Hardy tried to return but only lasted nine seconds of the second quarter.

The Panthers were leading the first time Hardy came out, 10-5, and played inspired basketball to increase the margin to 24-14 when he returned.

But as soon as he departed for the dressing room the momentum ebbed from one side to another.

Arnold, who scored 15 points in the second quarter, had the Bruins' first 11 points of the period, sending his team off on a 11-2 blitz.

Rich Rivera's 17-footer put the Bruins ahead, 27-26, at 2:36 before the half and they left the floor at halftime leading, 31-30.

Jordan, however, was far from a beaten team.

Arnold drew his fourth foul and had to leave at 1:40 of the third quarter with his team ahead, 47-41.

When he returned nearly 4 1/2 minutes later, Jordan had surged ahead, 52-51, on a steal by Jay Lorenzen.

With Hardy out, Jordan attempted to feed 6-8 junior Frank Van Dyke, who responded by scoring 27 points, hauling down a game-high 10 rebounds and blocking 3 shots.

Arnold scored five seconds after he returned to the game, sending Wilson back in front, 53-52, at 5:07 to set the stage for the wild finish.

The Bruins seemed in good position to put the game away, leading 58-52 at 3:01, but Van Dyke scored at 1:33, then blocked a shot by Joe Stinson and at the other end of the court put in a lay-in to tie the game, 58-58 at 0:56.

With Jordan then sagging back to a 2-1-2 zone, Wilson took time-outs at 0:52 and 0:13 to set up Arnold for his winning shot.

Miller 74; Watson, Littler tie

Combined News Services

PEBBLE BEACH — Johnny Miller and Jack Nicklaus continued their embarrassing, frustrating skid into the ranks of the also-rans while Tom Watson and Gene Littler swept into a tie for the second-round lead Friday in the $185,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am golf tournament.

Miller, the runaway, record-setting winner of the first two tournaments of the year, went over par for the first time this season. He had a 74, two over, at Spyglass Hill and was one over par at 145 halfway through this unique event on the Monterey Peninsula.

Nicklaus, suddenly challenged by Miller as the game's No. 1 practitioner, also had a 74 in the brilliant sunshine that afforded this tournament with some of its finest playing conditions ever. He remained tied with Miller, six shots back of the leaders.

But the red-haired Watson, the current Western Open champion, had a warning after his eagle-birdie-par finish at Pebble Beach had given him a 70 and a 139 total, five under par.

"You always have to look back at Johnny and Jack," he said, "but at this point I'd have to say I have a good chance."

The veteran Littler, who had a 71 at Pebble Beach for his share of the top spot, concurred:

"Those 61s have a way of catching up with you."

Miller has had a round of 61 in each of his last two tournaments.

U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin had the day's best round, a 67 at Pebble Beach, and was five strokes behind at 144.

Arnold Palmer, Lee Trevino and Gary Player are not competing in this event, in which the pros

Cazzie puts zip in sluggish Lakers

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

They don't call Cazzie Russell "Mr. Instant Points" for nothing.

The veteran forward bailed the sluggish Lakers out of a tight scrape Friday night, scoring 18 points in a nine-minute stretch of the second half to lift his team to a 110-108 victory over New Orleans.

The Jazz, winless in all of their 26 road games this season, scored the final nine points of the contest but never had a chance to win.

A Forum crowd of 10,880 gave Russell a warm welcome, but Cazzie couldn't get untraced in the first half and missed his only two field attempts.

When the Jazz pulled ahead by seven points early in the third period, coach Bill Sharman called on Russell again and the sharpshooting forward went right to work.

He scored six points in the final 3:50 of the period, helping the Lakers establish an 80-75 lead. Then he pumped in 12 more in five minutes to put the Lakers comfortably ahead, 94-81.

"Cazzie gives us the scoring balance we have to have to win," said Sharman. "Other teams have been overloading on our guards and now they will have to be more honest."

Russell, despite a tender ankle, worked hard for his shots and because of his quick release he needs little room to work. When he comes off a "pick" he can be devastating.

The 30-year-old veteran has now scored 42 points in 51 minutes of action. The only difference between this game and his first one in Oakland Tuesday was that he saved his

Black golfers ban lifted

ROSENBERG, Tex.—Black high school golfers will be allowed to participate in the Lamar Consolidated Golf Tournament despite letters sent by the school's golf coach asking other schools to leave their "colored players at home."

Lamar High School coach Lewis Williams said he had understood it was the policy of the Fort Bend Country Club, the tournament site, to not allow blacks to play on the course so he wrote letters to the 25 schools invited instructing them not to bring black team members.

Williams said in the letter, "Please leave your colored players at home or do not accept the invitation."

Forbes pleads innocent

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Dave Forbes of the Boston Bruins pleaded innocent Friday to an aggravated assault charge stemming from an alleged attack on the Minnesota North Stars' Henry Boucha during a Jan. 4 hockey game.

The indictment stemmed from an outburst in which witnesses said Forbes hit Boucha with his stick and beat his head and face into the ice after an earlier scuffle.

"We hockey players are in this game together," said Forbes. "It's a violent game."

Dolphins fire McPeak

MIAMI — Bill McPeak, whose service to the Miami Dolphins football team was limited last season after he suffered a stroke, has been fired.

"It was tough for me to tell him we just didn't have plans for him next season," Dolphin coach Don Shula said Friday. "But I think he understood."

"What else can I do?" McPeak said from his home. "They more or less carried me last year."

crucial 75-73 win over the Renegades in the LBCC gym. "This should help our confidence."

By way of El Camino's 63-60 loss to underdog Valley, Long Beach now shares first place with Pasadena, a 65-64 winner over Pierce.

"This just proves you can't look ahead in this conference," explained Fraser, who will guide the Vikings into Pasadena next Friday for another conference showdown.

The win was a combination of excellent balance by the Vikings, an effort even Fraser admitted had been lacking since the Santa Barbara tournament in early December.

Sparked by reserve Brian Lenzen, the Vikings shot a torrid 15-of-25 from the floor in the second half. Lenzen broke the see-saw battle wide open, hitting five of his first seven shots.

"I've just been waiting for my chance," said the 6-3 freshman in a whisper. "My shooting got me through high school and I've just been waiting to try it here."

Fraser said, "A bad shot against these guys and it's all over. 'They're excellent leapers.'"

"We were ready tonight," said sophomore co-captain Steve Sincock following his 16-point, 5-rebound performance.

"This is the best game we've had," added forward Guy King, saddled most of the game with handling Bakersfield's star forward Wayne Smith.

Led by Lenzen and freshman center Jeff McHugh (18 points), the Vikings offset the performance of Smith. Selected to the all-state team last year as a freshman, Smith tallied 30 points and hauled down 18 rebounds.

But despite Smith, the final score was not indicative of the Viking effort. Long Beach took the lead for good with 14:46 to play and had the game in hand by as many as nine points (73-64) before allowing the Renegades three easy layups in the final 15 seconds.

The first-half lead was tied or changed hands 17 times as the second-ranked Renegades failed to shake their opponent.

49ers face San Jose St.

By JIM McCORMACK
Staff Writer

Long Beach State is five-time defending Pacific Coast Athletic Association basketball champion, but guard Dale Dillon doesn't feel the 49ers will be taking this season's race lightly because of it.

"The race is really important to us," Dillon said after the 49ers' PCAA-opening 87-56 triumph over Pacific.

"This is the first time a Long Beach team hasn't been the clear-cut choice to win the conference. A lot of people don't even feel we should be the favorite. We want to show them they're wrong."

One of the teams a majority of courtside experts feel is the title favorite—San Jose State—invades the Long Beach Arena tonight for an 8 o'clock tipoff with the 49ers.

The 49er Junior Varsity hosts the Pacific Christian College JV in a 5:45 prelim.

"We are in a unique situation for a Long Beach team," admits 49er coach Dwight Jones. "This is the first time that one of our teams could, conceivably, win or lose every conference game it plays."

"If we play our hearts out, though, as we did against Pacific, I like our chances against anyone."

The 49ers will need such an effort tonight.

Ivan Guevara's Spartans, PCAA dormat a season ago with a 2-10 conference record, are 13-6 this season and opened league competition Thursday night with an 82-74 triumph at Fresno State.

In that victory 6-2 guard Pete Miller, the Spartans' leading scorer with a 14.3 average, scored a career-high 28 points.

Miller, a senior, is joined in the starting lineup by 6-4 Pat Barrett, 6-10 Rick Darnell, 6-5 Earl Hogue and 6-7 Ron Fair.

Orndorff is the club's No. 2 scorer with a 12.9 average, followed by Barrett (11.8), Darnell (10.9), Hogue (10.4) and Fair (8.4).

Barrett and Darnell are two of the biggest reasons for the Spartans' turnaround this season after going 11-15 a year ago.

A graduate of Magnolia High School in Anaheim and Cypress Junior College, Darnell is a redshirt transfer from Indiana State University and the first true "big man" Guevara has had in his four years at San Jose.

"Rick's the best big man we've had at San Jose," says Guevara, "and we're counting on him to give us the size we need to compete at this level."

Darnell is averaging 9.3 rebounds a game.

Barrett, a junior, is also from Cypress JC, and has led the Spartans in scoring five times this season.

There is a chance that the 49ers will be at less than full strength for the Spartans.

LBSU's leading scorer, Richard Johnson, played Thursday night with the flu and was home in bed Friday morning when the 49ers practiced.

Bat, not glove, Kiner's ticket to Hall

Kiner about fielding is the same as Casey Stengel climbing on Yogi Berra about his grammar. Greenberg was kidding Kiner, naturally. He was trying to take some of the sting out of his friend's wound, but facts are facts. Ralph Kiner trying to catch up with line drives hit out to him in left field automatically conjures up in the mind's eye the same picture of delicacy and grace as, say, Will Chamberlain trying to sneak under a subway turnstile.

Jokes are still told of how poor Frank

Baumholtz wore himself out playing centerfield for the Chicago Cubs during the two season in the early 50's when he had Kiner on one side of him and Hank Sauer, another gazelle, on the other. Everytime a ball was hit anywhere to the outfield Kiner and Sauer would both cup their hands and holler:

"You got it, Frankie!"

Ralph Kiner, now a TV and radio broadcaster for the New York Mets, during his 10 major league seasons, the first seven of which were spent with Pittsburgh. Not only didn't he win any, he never was even in the running.

Ralph Kiner made it into the Hall of Fame with one thing—his bat.

In his time, which was from 1946 when he first came up with the Pirates to 1955 when a bad back forced him to pack it in with Cleveland, Kiner led the National League in homers seven consecutive seasons and the majors six years. He hit 369 home runs. No other player in major league history ever hit that many in his first 10 years.

Greenberg was on hand for Kiner's election to the Hall—and there wasn't anyone any happier.

Greenberg hit a few homers himself—331—and was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1957. He led the American League in homers four times with Detroit before finishing with Pittsburgh in 1947, and that was where he had a tremendous influence on Kiner.

"It always bugged hell outta me that they said I was such a poor fielder," he said. "I considered myself a pretty good fielder, and Sauer wasn't really that bad, either. I was no Joe DiMaggio, but I caught everything I could get to."

The big trouble was Ralph Kiner didn't get to everything. He never won a Gold Glove for his defensive proficiency aged only eight of 27 field goals.

But the hosts, by virtue of 14-2 scoring spree that opened the third quarter,

UCLA invades lair of Irish

Combined News Services

Notre Dame's basketball team finds out today what a difference a year makes.

The Irish meet the UCLA Bruins on the Notre Dame floor and there's a world of difference between the circumstances now and those leading to their last encounter in the 11,345 seat Convocation Center.

Channel 5, 1 p.m.

A year ago Notre Dame moved into the contest with a nine-game winning streak and a berth in the nation's top ten. UCLA came into the contest with an 88-game winning streak and the No. 1 national ranking.

Notre Dame won 71-70 on Dwight Clay's last minute field goal from the corner, taking over the No. 1 ranking.

UCLA has no long winning streak today but holds a 14-1 season record. Notre Dame, unranked, has an 8-6 season record. The first game between the teams this season was played on the UCLA floor and, although the Irish held a lead of as many as 19 points in the first half, the Bruins rallied to win, 85-72.

"Our players need to win a few to regain their confidence," Irish coach Digger Phelps said.

"Playing eight games in a row on the road against the likes of UCLA, Kentucky, Maryland, Pittsburgh and Marquette is a difficult assignment for any team and especially so for an inexperienced squad like ours."

Indiana's, ranked No. 1 nationally with the longest current winning streak of any college squad, may get its second toughest test of the Big Ten season today against Purdue.

The Boilermakers hold second place in the Big Ten race with a 5-1 record compared to Indiana's 6-0 and could move into a tie for the lead by winning.

A win for Indiana would give the Hoosiers a two-game lead in the Big Ten race, with its toughest league game yet to come, a return match with the Boilermakers at Purdue.

Third-place Minnesota 5-2 plays at Iowa 3-4, while Northwestern 1-5 will try to break a four game losing streak at Michigan 3-3. In other Big Ten games, Wisconsin 0-6 seeks its first win of the conference campaign at Michigan State 2-4 and Illinois 2-4 will be at Ohio State 4-2 with a four game winning streak.

A temporary break in the jam-up at the top of the Pacific-8 Conference basketball standings will come today when Oregon plays at Oregon State.

ANGELS TO GET EARLY A.L. START

The Angels will be the home team for the first game of the 1975 American League season, meeting the Kansas City Royals at Anaheim Stadium in a night game on Monday, April 7, it was announced today by league president Lee MacPhail.

The 10 other A.L. teams will inaugurate their seasons the following day, with New York at Cleveland, Baltimore at Detroit and Milwaukee at Boston in afternoon games, and Chicago at Oakland and Minnesota at Texas in night games.

The 25-week season, in which each team will play the customary 162 games, will conclude Sept. 23. This year's opening is three days later than last season and the closing is four days earlier.

The All-Star game is scheduled for July 15 at Milwaukee's County Stadium.

Dick Harter calls a chance to enjoy first place "for a couple of days, anyway."

The Air Force is at 15th ranked Stanford tonight and California hosts L.A. State while Washington entertains Seattle, which beat Portland Thursday night 70-60.

Southern California and Washington State are off for the weekend.

Kings' Pulford fears ambush

By AL LARSON
Staff Writer

UNIONDALE, N.Y. — With only three losses in 24 games away from home, one wouldn't think coach Bob Pulford had anything to worry about tonight when the Kings play the last-place New York Islanders.

But the owner of the best road record in the National Hockey League (15-3-6) fears an ambush.

"The Islanders are the only team we have a losing record against this season," Pulford said as the Kings prepared for their two-game invasion of New York.

"We escaped with a 3-2 tie the last time we played here and they beat us 3-0 at home," Pulley said.

The Kings meet the New York Rangers on Sunday before returning to open an important four-game homestand starting Tuesday against the Rangers. Washington moves in Thursday and then it's another showdown with Montreal on Saturday.

Clinging to a one-point lead over Montreal in Division III, the Kings can't afford to stumble since the Canadiens host Buffalo and Pittsburgh this weekend.

Channel 5, 5 p.m.

Here is how the Kings have fared against their 17 opponents while carving out an over-all 27-7-12 record:

Atlanta 1-1-0, Boston 2-2-0, Buffalo 3-0-0, California 1-1-0, Chicago 1-1-0, Detroit 3-0-0, Kansas City 2-0-0, Minnesota 2-0-0, Montreal 1-0-3, N.Y. Islanders 0-1-1, N.Y. Rangers 0-0-2, Philadelphia 1-1-0, Pittsburgh 2-0-1, St. Louis 1-0-1, Toronto 4-0-1, Vancouver 1-0-1, Washington 2-0-1.

After 46 games a year ago the Kings were possessors of a miserable 16-22-8 record.

Tonight's armchair experts can expect to see Rogie Vachon in goal again.

"I hadn't told anyone up to now, but Gary (Edwards) has a broken toe."

Pulford confided Friday. "He did it in practice. That's why I've started Rogie the last seven games."

Vachon risks his league-leading 1.00 goals against average against the Islanders. Edwards, the Kings' backup goalie, has a 2.14 GAA in 15 appearances in the nets.

ICE CUBES: The Kings' 10th largest crowd and biggest ever for the Maple Leafs boosted their season average to 12,398 for 22 home dates. A year ago the Kings had attracted 11,022 for a similar number of games. The crushing 8-0 triumph over the Leafs left the Kings 17-20-6 lifetime vs. Toronto; 13-7-1 vs. the Leafs at home and 4-0-1 this season. The Kings have not lost to the Leafs in their last eight meetings. Tonight's game marks Terry Harper's 201st as King player. Frank St. Marseille begins his third season with the Kings, having joined the club in Minnesota two years ago after being traded for Paul Curtis. Frank notched his 350th goal in the NHL Thursday night. Dutch Goring needs two points for 250 in the NHL; Whitley Widling needs one point to reach 300.

Improvements over last year: Danny Maloney has 16 goals and 36 points compared to 8 goals and 19 points a year ago. Don Kozak has 12 goals; last year he had 7 at the same point. The Kings have allowed a league low of 93 goals in 46 games; last year they had yielded 148. Offensively, the Kings have scored 157 goals; last year they had 128 goals in 46 matches. The Kings are 11-3-6 vs. original six NHL teams. The Kings are unbeaten in 8 of their last 9 (7-1-1) and 10 of the last 12 (9-2-1). The Kings' power play netted three goals on four chances Thursday against the Leafs.

Rex C. Ellsworth's son said Friday he is attempting to receive permission to move most of the family's undernourished mares from the Chino farm to a ranch near Tucson.

But the San Bernardino

County district attorney's office said no decision had been reached whether charges will be filed against the Ellsworths but that the investigation was continuing.

The Humane Society impounded 128 starving horses. Five of the horses have died within the last 10 days.

SOME OF the world's top track stars, including Al Feuerbach, George Woods, Dwight Stones and Steve Prefontaine, will compete tonight in the Oregon Indoor Invitational track meet.

LARRY FOGLE, leading scorer in the nation last season, was reinstated to the troubled Canisius College basketball team on "probationary status."

Fogle was dismissed two weeks ago for "general attitude" and for missing and being late to practice," according to his coach, John McCarthy.

BRIEFLY: Bobby Orr's attorney, Alan Eagleson, casually mentions figures of $2 million to $3 million, predicting the Boston Bruins defenseman will become the highest paid hockey player ever. Eagleson, also confirmed the World Hockey Association has put out feelers when his contract expires in mid-76. The Washington Redskins are trying to trade for Ron Johnson of the New York Giants. Skin general manager, Coach Gene Allen said he discussed a trade with New York. Allen said the Redskins also are interested in Willie Lanier, recently retired Kansas City linebacker; Pat Toomay, who has asked to be traded from Dallas, and John Riggins, a lineman with the defunct World Football League Florida Blazers. Weber State basketball coach Gene Visscher has resigned, saying his team has gotten away from him. Sid Gillman reaffirmed he will stay with the Houston Oilers as general manager but "not actively coach." Gillman once again indicated an assistant will take his place as head coach. Former Cleveland Browns head coach Blanton Collier, will end semi-retirement to serve as quarterback coach for the Browns and new coach Forrest Gregg.

Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau said the Federal Government has not made any contingency plans to help cover a $250-million deficit expected to be incurred by the 1975 Summer Olympic Games. Columbian middleweight Rodrigo Valdes will defend his World Boxing Council title against Frenchman Max Cohen in Grenoble, France, Feb. 23. Mike Hess, 18, voted amateur boxer of the year in 1973, has enlisted in the Marine Corps and will be assigned to the Corps' boxing team. New York Cosmos manager Clive Tave has conducted talks with Manchester United officials in an effort to buy controversial soccer superstar George Best for his North American Soccer League team. An Alvaro Pineda Memorial Fund has been established at Union Bank. Contributions can be mailed to P.O. Box 67429, Los Angeles 90067. The Manila Basketball Association will turn pro in February to give Asia its first professional basketball league. Cliff Walker of the Chicago Bulls will play his 1,000th game tonight against Detroit. Walker will become only the eighth player to reach the 1,000-game plateau.

INNSBRUCK—Marie-Theres Nadig, the Olympic nemesis of Annemarie Proell, struck again Friday, beating the Austrian skier in the World Cup downhill. Miss Nadig sped down the 2,615-meter trail on Hoadi Mountain in 1:46.55. Miss Proell clocked 1:47.31. Jacqueline Rouvier, was third in 1:48.22, the best French showing in a women's downhill this season. Cindy Nelson topped the U.S. squad but finished a disappointing 12th in 1:50.43.

STOWE—Robert Young of San Valley took first place in the men's aerial event of the national men's freestyle championship. Young finished with 281.65 points while Dena Dandane of Grand Trappe, Wyo., was second with 258.20, and Bob Salerno of Ogden, Utah, was third with 240.35.

Ginny Moller of Steamboat Springs won the women's event with 367.52 points. Penelope Street of Lake Tahoe was second and Genia Fuller of Heavenly Valley third.

LACONA, N.H.—Don Nielsen of New London, N.H., a member of the National Cross Country Ski Team, won the 10-kilometer race at the U.S. National Nordic Combined Championships. Nielsen finished the course in 40 minutes, 35 seconds.

ASPEN—Laurie Kreiner of Timmins, Ont., won the downhill Friday and combined it with a second place earlier in the slalom to win the women's Roche Cup in Canadian-American ski competition.

Aussie tops two world swim marks

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (UPI) — Steve Holland, a 16-year-old Australian schoolboy, smashed two world records in his opening swim at the New Zealand Games Saturday when he clocked 15 minutes, 27.79 seconds for the 1500 meters.

Holland knocked two-tenths of a second off his 800-meter record and then clipped 3.96 seconds off the previous mark for the 1500 meters at the Indoor Queen Elizabeth pool.

Holland lapped all but one of his four opponents in the 1500 meters as he swam unopposed to his new world records.

He snipped .2 of a second off his world mark of 8:15.2, set last Sunday in Brisbane in a pre-Games trial, and then charged for the 1500 crown cheered on by a poor crowd of 1,200 fans.

FOREMAN TO VIE ON ALI CARD

United Press International

Promoters of the Muhammad Ali-Chuck Wepner heavyweight championship bout announced Friday it would be coupled with a 12-round fight between heavyweights George Foreman and Oscar Bonavena as part of a doubleheader.

Don King, head of Video Techniques Inc., which promoted the Ali-Foreman match in Zaire last October, announced the twinbill but refused to disclose the purses Foreman or Bonavena would receive in the Cleveland match scheduled for March 24.

Dick Sadler, Foreman's manager, Ali, and King, held a news conference to announce the addition and Sadler said that 50 cents to $1 of each ticket sold would be given to "Project Survival," an organization dedicated to helping famine-stricken blacks in Africa.

Joe Frazier, shunted aside by Ali for an immediate title bout, will not remain idle while Ali picks on Wepner.

Frazier admitted he has agreed to meet former WBA heavyweight champion Jimmy Ellis in Melbourne, Australia, on March 2.

"I guess (Cassius) Clay can get away with it," Joe said, "but I don't see how he can jump over so many people—not only me. There's Ron (Lyle) and Jerry (Quarry) and George (Foreman) as well as me ahead of Wepner in ranking. I dunno if the people will buy it."

"Another thing, Clay's always talking about his loyalty to the brothers. All that black stuff. So he ups and gives a white man the title shot first."

Ratings on line

Poly, Lakewood joust for lead

No worse than a share of the Moore League basketball lead and a high rating in the CIF top 10 will be on the line tonight when Poly and Lakewood high schools meet at Long Beach City College. Tipoff is 7:30.

The Jackrabbits are No. 2 and Lakewood fifth on this week's CIF Southern Section 4-A poll.

More importantly, both are coming off opening league victories. Lakewood is making its first appearance since defeating Jordan a week ago today, 59-55; while in another close game, Poly stopped Compton, 67-64, Wednesday.

That game marked the first time since the finals of the Beverly Hills Tournament the Jackrabbits had all three of their talented front-line juniors — James Hughes, Michael Wiley and Johnny Nash — score in double figures.

A key player for Lakewood tonight figures to be guard Fred Powers who after an early slump has been in double figures the last five games, averaging 13.5 points in that span.

Wiley at 18.5 and Lakewood center Mickey Chislock (18.1) lead their teams in scoring.

The game will be broadcast over KLOM-FM (88.1).

49ers, No. 3

Tennessee vie Monday night

The Long Beach State University swimming team will meet No. 3-ranked Tennessee Monday night at Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool. The dual meet commences at 8 p.m.

Dick Jochems, head coach of the 49ers, has guided his team to a 5-2 season record following last week's victory over defending PCAA champion University of Pacific.

The 49ers and the Volunteers of Tennessee have met in dual competition only once previously with Tennessee winning by a wide margin two years ago. Long Beach also entertains Arizona Friday at the Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool. Admission to both meets is $1 for adults, 50 cents for students.

Harris removed as # coach of Toros

TORONTO (UPI) — Billy Harris, coach-in-limbo of the Toronto Toros of the World Hockey Association, was told Friday that he won't be coaching the team again this season.

Instead, he will be working on unspecified assignments for Toros' President John Bassett Jr.

Shoe hits S. Anita win spree

Veteran rider Bill Shoemaker rode three consecutive winners Friday including favored Donna B. Quick in the featured $20,300 San Rafael Stakes at Santa Anita Park.

Donna B. Quick raced easily to the front early and led virtually all the way in taking the six-furlong test by nearly a length over In Prosperity with Take Powder third by 2 1/4.

Carrying 114 pounds, Donna B. Quick, the 6-5 favorite, paid $4.40, $3.40 and $3.80. Stablemates In Prosperity and Take Powder, coupled in the wagering, paid $5 and $4.60. The winner was clocked in a rapid 1:09.3-5.

Shoemaker also won the sixth aboard Udonegood at $5.40 and the seventh on Copying at $4.80. Shoemaker had only two other mounts; the one finished last and the other broke down and didn't finish.

Today at Santa Anita, 20 of the West's top grass specialists will be to the post in the El Camino Real Handicap, a mile and one-quarter turf clash for older horses.

Because of the large field, the Camino Real has been split into two divisions with $16,175, awaiting each winner from gross purses of $26,300 each.

The first division, the fifth race, is headed by Irish-bred Barclay Joy, which will have Don Pierce up. Also in the first division will be New Zealand-bred Bali Sea, with Robert Woodhouse up.

Barclay Joy and Bali Sea are pitted against Chief Pronto, Prince Petrone, Bo Hatch, Company Commander, El Tartu, El Botija, Hierarch II and Artxerxes.

DEAR PROSPECTIVE CUSTOMER:

WE BOTH ARE AWARE THAT OUR NATIONAL ECONOMY IS EXPERIENCING A TRYING PERIOD ... THE GOVERNMENT IS ATTEMPTING ON THE ONE HAND TO CONTROL RISING PRICES WHILE AT THE SAME TIME TRYING TO STIMULATE AND ENCOURAGE THE PURCHASE OF BASIC COMMODITIES.

WE HAVE LIVED THRU RECESSIONS BEFORE AND WE SHALL OVERCOME THIS ONE, FOR REGARDLESS OF TEMPORARY APPEARANCES AND THE DISCOMFORT SOME ARE ENDURING, OUR ECONOMY IS SOUND AND OUR FUTURE IS PROMISING. WE HAVE NOTHING TO FEAR AND WE MUST CERTAINLY NOT FALL PREY TO THE CONTAGIOUS INACTIVITY AND NEGATIVITY WHICH FEAR PRODUCES.

IN KEEPING, THEREFORE, WITH OUR GOVERNMENT'S REQUEST THAT INDUSTRY LOWER THEIR PRICES AND IN OUR EFFORT TO STIMULATE BUSINESS, WE HAVE DECIDED TO DISCOUNT ALL OUR NEW 1975 VEGAS, NOVAS, MONZAS, CHEVELLES, MONTE CARLOS, IMPALAS, CAPRICES AND STATION WAGONS AS FOLLOWS: DEALER INVOICE (EXCLUDING FACTORY REBATES OR INCENTIVES) PLUS 5%!
